ROTARIAN PRACTICE IS ITS ONLY PREACHING OF IDEALS OF UNION FOR HUMAN UPLIFT

Service Above Self Is Radiant Motto Which Carries With It Perpetual Turning of the Wheel of Life

PROGRESS IS IMPELLIING MOTIF

Note of Sympathy Added to Common Dealings of Men and Members Subverting Personal Ambition to the Duty to Society

The wheels of the Thirteenth Annual International Rotary convention, which is being held in Los Angeles from June 4 to June 10, inclusive, were put in motion yesterday, and, according to the program that has been arranged and the plans that have been completed, this will be the largest attended and most interesting and instructive convention ever held by this organization. Representatives will be in attendance from twenty-five or more nations of the earth, and it is confidently expected that from every standpoint the wonderful program that is to be presented will more than repay every delegate for the time and effort expended in coming to and attending the gathering, regardless of how far he may have been compelled to journey in order to be present.

This convention will be strictly a Rotary gathering. That is nothing but Rotary subjects will be discussed, and all of the features will be given by members of the Rotary Club—men who know what they are talking about and who are daily endeavoring to practice what they preach. Every day will be filled to the brim with interesting features, both instructive and entertaining and nothing will be left undone that in any way pertains to the success of the convention.

The early delegates to the convention arrived yesterday. There are always a few who believe in being right on time and taking in the "whole show." A few, in fact, arrived as early as Saturday evening, but the "herd" proper did not begin to assemble until yesterday. For these the members of the Rotary clubs in Los Angeles and nearby cities provided entertainment. Automobile trips were made to Pasadena and the famous Busch gardens, and visits were enjoyed to the Maryland and Green hotels, which are the headquarters for the Rotarians of the 23rd district. Other trips were made to Santa Monica, Venice and Hollywood.

Today is Glendale Day at the convention. It is expected that at least one thousand visitors will take advantage of the opportunity to see this wonderful valley. Machines donated by Glendale citizens will meet the visiting Rotarians at 11:30 o'clock on Olive street, between Fourth and Fifth streets, where the guests will be taken aboard and driven over the following route:

Out Glendale (Lakeshore) boulevard past Echo Park, Edendale, Silver Lake, Ivanhoe—into Glendale via Brand boulevard to Mountain street, the end of the Pacific Electric car line at Casa Verdugo. From this point the caravan will go west to Central avenue, north to Kenneth, west to Grand View, south to Glenwood road, east to Pacific, south to Burchett, east to Central, south to Broadway, east to Glendale avenue, north to Verdugo Woodlands, through the woods at the end of Canada boulevard to Verdugo road, thence to Montrose, east to La Canada, Flintridge to Devil Gate dam, thence south on the west bank of the Arroyo into Pasadena, thence by Colorado street bridge return via Annondale Golf Club, Eagle Rock and Broadway to Brand boulevard. From this point it will go south to Los Feliz road, and into Los Angeles via Vermont, Seventh and Hill to the convention hall.

ROTARY CHIEFTAIN ISSUES WELCOME

Crawford C. McCullough Greets Delegates to Big Convention

Crawford C. McCullogh, of Fort William, Ont., international president of the Rotary organization, issued the following greeting to the delegates to the Rotary convention in Los Angeles, this morning. He said in part:

"Rotary will survive through accomplishment; never through mere profession. A Rotarian and a Rotary club assumes, by the very profession which he or it makes, a responsible trust which carries with it attendant obligations.

The great thing to remember is that the strength of Rotary is not as an organization, but as an ideal which can be and is translated into practice of everyday life. Even if Rotary had no organization, the Rotary movement, as such, would survive. But without organization, and without an international association to safeguard the ideals, the ethics and the principles upon which Rotary is based, the irresistible momentum of cooperation would be lost and the tendency would be to dilution of ideals and deflection of purpose. We must look at this whole matter with the vision of men who are pursuing a great ideal and are seeing with their own eyes how resultfully it works in practice. We must keep before us a vision of Rotary as a great international world force whose component clubs are each a unit in a great movement. Remember that the internationalism of Rotary and its world vision is built upon the conception which your club, as a particular unit, has of Rotary's mission, and that you have a part in the creation and shaping of Rotary as a world movement."

COURT UPHELD

WASHINGTON, June 5.—The action of the California court in sentencing Al Besely of San Diego, Cal., to ten months in jail on two indictments under the prohibition law, was today upheld by the supreme court. The supreme court refused to review the case.

VAN FLEET NOMINATED

WASHINGTON, June 5.—President Harding today nominated Vernon W. Van Fleet of Indiana to be a member of the federal trade commission.

JINGLING JAZZ OF THE NEWS

By Bert Marple

The Rotary is on the job, ten thousand boosters strong;
With yellow hatbands they sure cut a swell.
They're coming to our city after lunch to see the sights,
And later on they'll wander here to dwell.

A hundred Burbank boosters flashed along our streets today;
They drove the last old "dead one" from their town.
Three hundred bones are gathered at the W. R. C. bazaar.
Eight to 2 the Merchants bake the Tigers brown.

Canine owners here in Glendale soon will get an awful jolt,
When Judge Lowe says "25 bones, please," good day.
Harry Gorman and Miss McClammy soon will travel "paired" for life.
Iland Fanset entertained Hi-Y, they say.

Guthrie's back from San Francisco where with realtors he met,
No more 'Frisco town for Charlie, so I guess.
Arthur Sullivan will marry sweet Miss Dorothy, 'tis said.

IOWA REPUBLICANS GO TO PRIMARY

DES MOINES, Iowa, June 5.—National political interest focused on Iowa today, where fully 350,000 voters turned out to nominate a republican candidate for United States senator.

Although the Iowa voters will select a full slate of party candidates for national and state offices, the fight for the United States senate seat recently vacated by W. S. Kenyon was the big drawing card.

BIG MERGER ATTACKED

WASHINGTON, June 5.—The federal trade commission today struck at the big Bethlehem-Lackawanna steel merger.

Charging that the merger, when consummated, will violate anti-trust laws and "contain a dangerous tendency unduly to hinder competition," the commission issued a formal complaint against the two companies.

WET PLATFORM

TOPEKA, Kan., June 5.—Miss Helen Pettigrew, pretty Kansas City, Kan., girl in her twenties, who is advocating return of light wines and beer, today filed declaration of candidacy with the secretary of state for the republican nomination for governor of Kansas.

Marriage Is Not Considered Sacred As in Days Gone by

The sanctity of marriage is today overlooked in many cases, and one of the greatest institutions in the world is not commanding its due respect, says Henry James, this evening, in commenting on the actions of certain well-known men and women whose divorces have stirred the country.

Practically everything in life depends upon the choice one makes. Every step in life is one of choice, except that of possible accident or illness. James W. Foley this evening philosophizes in his characteristic way and concludes "The Listening Post" with the question, "What things will you choose?"

Prompted by William Hart's plea for the abused American Indian, there is an editorial this evening citing the many wrongs the redskin has suffered at the hands of the white man, to the shame of the latter. Besides this there are editorials on Europe's cheerful attitude, Senator Borah and South America. The editorials cover a wide field and all of them are timely.

Completing the page are articles by Dr. Frank Crane, Della Stewart and John Pilgrim, and a beautiful poem.

OVERSEAS SENDS DELEGATES TO CONVENTION

Ireland, Scotland and England Represented; Harry Lauder, Too

One of the most meritorious of the many delegations that are in attendance at the convention of the International Association of Rotary Clubs, is the bunch of 50 Rotarians from Ireland, headed by William A. McConnell, official head of the Rotary in the British Isles. This is the largest overseas delegation ever to attend a Rotary convention. As his assistant Mr. McConnell has Vivian Carter, secretary of the temporary organization of the British Rotary Clubs, which has been in existence for some time.

G. J. P. Arnold, who will succeed Mr. McConnell as head of the British Clubs, and in case of a ratification of the proposed constitution will become president of Rotary International Associations of Great Britain, is also a member of the party, as is also Alexander Wilkie of Edinborough, Scotland. Former president of the British Clubs. Mr. Wilkie will become the representative of the British Clubs on the International Board if the new constitution is adopted. He was selected for the office at a joint meeting of all British Clubs held at Brighton, England, two weeks ago.

When this delegation left London it was given a rousing send off, Sir Harry Lauder being yell leader for the occasion as well as principal speaker. Lauder is a member of the Rotary Club of Glasgow and has spoken before many of the Rotary Clubs of the United States.

Others who are attending the convention from across the seas are: Mr. and Mrs. Unwin, Mr. and Mrs. Shearn, Mr. and Mrs. Phillips, Arthur Chadwick, Cecil Clayton, G. R. Clegg and A. H. Barrett of London, England; T. Dormand Stewart of Middlesborough, R. A. Dodds and Allan Dodds of Newcastle-Upon-Tyne, Frank White of Scarborough, Edwin Robinson of Sheffield, Leonard Lankester of Southhampton, Hartford H. Montgomery of Belfast, Ireland, K. Muir Simpson, of Glasgow, Scotland, D. Sibbering Jones, Peter Halewood and J. Edgar Salmon of Cardiff, Wales.

Marcel Franck, vice-president of the Rotary Club of Paris, France, is the delegate from his club; Herbert P. Coates of Montevideo, Uruguay, will represent the Rotary Clubs of his city and of Buenos Aires, Argentine, as well as the new Rotary Club of Lima, Peru. There will also be one Chinese and one American delegate from the Rotary Club of Shanghai, China.

Dr. Carlos Alzugaray of Havana, Cuba, official head of the Cuban Rotary Clubs, will have a delegation of 17 members of the Rotary Club of Havana; 12 members of the Rotary Club of Cienfuegos, four delegates from the Rotary Club of Sagua la Grande and six delegates from the Rotary Club of Mantanzar. Robert Williamson heads the Rotary Club of Mexico City. There will also be 10 delegates from the Rotary Clubs of Honolulu and Hilo, Hawaii, and Carson Taylor of Manila will head the delegation from the Rotary Club of the chief city of the Philippine Isuands. The Panama canal territory will be represented by Secretary Gerald D. Bliss of the Rotary Club of Cristobal-Colon.

THE WEATHER

Southern California: Tonight and Tuesday fair, except cloudy or foggy near coast tonight and early morning.

Los Angeles and vicinity: Fair tonight and Tuesday, probably fog or clouds in the morning.

Welcome Rotary

Glendale today salutes the great brotherhood of Rotary.

It welcomes to its heart the great principle of rotary.

Its salute and its welcome are an acceptance of a rule of life in harmony with its own activation.

It is proper that the first day of the annual international convention of the organization should be designated "Glendale day."

It takes all manner and conditions of men to make a principle cohesively international as a thing to be fought for, to be promulgated world-wide.

It must be devoid of selfishness, it must be impregnated with a purpose of service to all men as brothers.

As such it may assemble within its ranks men who do not speak the same language, men whose education and ways of life are totally different.

Like the notes of a musical harmony, the harmony of a principle awakens the great underlying purposes of life and so sweeps over all racial boundaries, bursts all confines of insulation and mingles men in one great wave of complete understanding. It needs no words of any language to give it meaning. Principles are like thoughts, polyglotic in form.

So Glendale, with its population drawn from every part of the Union, its harmonious progress and inspiration of community service, its plane of life, in which the squalor and the corruption of older cities is unknown through the will of the people of the city, is fitted to receive representatives who sustain the high brotherhood principle of service, Rotary.

It was in the cause of that high principle that the call for automobiles to convey the delegates to Glendale was issued.

It was the call of service before self that was issued by the Glendale Rotary club, which has never been raised without careful consideration of the need to be met, with an active realization of the response such a call receives here in Glendale.

For Glendale is a rotary city in its very inception, since it is a city gathered on the hillsides and the plains by men and women of equal purposes.

It is the individual seeking and finding other individuals that makes a city. As one, so all those gathered together.

A city where a principle of right living, right thinking, right doing, brotherhood of community service predominates is founded by individuals who are each characterized in his inner life by these ideals and therefore each expresses these characteristics in his living and in his slection of a place to exist.

Such a place is Glendale, a city of wondrous growth, a city made by men and women of today, and sustained by their children of today. No dead hand of past greed lies over the lives of this city; it is not mortgaged to the past, nor its rectitude bonded to any but the individual interest of the city and its people. It is a free city of free people who are united in the common bond of srevice and brotherhood.

SPRING BONNETS IN POLITICAL ARENA

WASHINGTON, June 5.—More women are seeking high political offices in the elections this fall than ever before in the history of the country, a survey made by the National Woman's party shows.

Already reports have been received that four women are candidates for the senate, twenty for the house and two for governors of states.

In addition to the women candidates for congressional and gubernatorial offices, there are scores of "the early enfranchised voters" in the race for minor offices.

Clean Up and Stay Clean Is New Movie Order

NEW YORK, June 5.—An ultimatum from Czar Will H. Hays to the movies to "clean up and stay clean" was posted today in studios of New York and Los Angeles. Hays in a letter to the motion picture producers and distributors of America, representing 75 per cent of the industry in this country, said in part:

"We can make the greatest immediate progress in establishing and maintaining the highest possible moral and artistic standard of motion picture production if those charged with production make sure they do strive for this very thing.

"Pictures being made now will come out soon and will be proof either of our ability to correct our evils ourselves or of our inability to run our own business."

The following motion picture organizations are among those backing Hays in his "morality" move:

Fox, Educational Film exchanges, Universal, Metro, Vitagraph, Goldwyn, Select Pictures and the Famous Players-Lasky corporation.

GLENDALE SWINGS INTO CONVENTION LIME LIGHT

Fleet of Machines Head for Los Angeles to Bring Delegates Here

Glendale swung into place early today with a fleet of machines, headed for Los Angeles, bent on marking Glendale Day in red letters for the visiting Rotarians to the limit of her available automobiles.

The machines left shortly after noon, bound for Olive between Fourth and Fifth streets, Los Angeles, where Rotarians were to be picked up for a ride through this district.

Among the Glendale boosters who furnished cars were W. E. Hewitt, Richardson D. White, Thos. D. Watson, George Carr, William Howe, George U. Moyse, E. U. Emery, Ed Phillips, Parrish & Burton, J. H. Huntley, Mr. Page, Fred Deal, S. B. Brown, A. G. Spohr, L. H. Allison, W. L. Twining, B F. Brown, E. L. Schuyler, J. C. Pollock, M. A. Trim, E. S. McKee, Mr. Bell, Cameron Thom, H. L. There will be others, but the names of these could not be learned in time for publication.

'SAY ROTARY WITH YOUR FLAGS,' KENT

President of Local Unit Asks Cooperation With Big Event

Get out your colors for Rotary.

Thousands of Rotarians, delegates to the convention in Los Angeles, will come to visit Glendale today and during the remainder of the week. So decorate up a little for them. Put up the good old American colors on home and business house, and sprinkle around them the colors of the Rotary, orange and purple.

Glendale is with the Rotary —so prove it to them, in flags.

CALIFORNIA WOMAN ON FEDERAL BOARD

WASHINGTON, June 5.—The appointment of Dr. Ethel M. Watters of San Francisco as consultant in the administration of the Sheppard-Townér maternity act was announced today by the department of labor. Dr. Watters since 1919 has been director of the bureau of child hygiene in the California state board of health. She becomse a member of the staff of the federal children's bureau, which is charged with the duty of administering in co-operation with the states the federal funds appropriated for promoting the welfare and hygiene of maternity and infancy.

A. F. OF L. TO FIGHT

WASHINGTON, June 5.—The American Federation of Labor mobilized its forces today for the big fight against wage cuts.

With threats of a rail strike in the air on the eve of the Cincinnati conference of sixteen railroad brohterhoods, Samuel Gompers, big chief, left to attend the meeting. The brotherhoods' conference will extend over into the convention and the tentative decisions of the former will be sanctioned as the combined principles of all labor in America, it is believed.

13TH INTERNATIONAL ROTARY CONVENTION STARTS IN L. A. TODAY

One Thousand Expected to Be Guests of Glendale and of Local Rotary Organization Through Donations of Machines

WORLD-WIDE DELEGATIONS ASSEMBLE

Day for Registration Crowded With Arrivals From All Parts of the World, Here to See the Wonders of California Rotary

No civic, social or literary organization in the world has hitched its wagon to a higher star of idealism than has the Rotary club, the Glendale branch of which includes many of the leading business and professional men of Glendale. By this is not meant "idealism" as is generally understood, which consists of lofty theory without practice, but it means an idealism that covers both theory and practice, for nothing is more practical than are the rules and ethics of the Rotary club, while at the same time they are uplifting, both to the members of the club and to all those who come in contact with them.

The Rotary club was organized primarily to serve. Its motto is "Service Above Self," for he profits most who serves best. No man can live alone, and no more can a Rotarian or a Rotary club. It believes that there is no middle couse for a Rotary club. It must either go forward or go backward, and the place that it occupies in the public opinion of the community which it presumes to serve will not only be the measure of its usefulness, but will set the standard by which public opinion in that community will judge Rotary in every other community.

It believes that the strength of International Rotary is but the total of that of its component clubs and of the men who comprise them; so that the surest and most effective contribution that a Rotary club can make to the progress of Rotary throughout the world is for itself to be a good Rotary club. So, it believes that if Rotary is to justify itself in any community, the very first thing necessary is that the unit club be strong and vigorous with a clear conception of what it is organized to do and how it should be done.

It is a fact and every Rotarian believes that the success of any Rotary club depends pretty much upon its leadership—upon the officers and directors of the club, and above all upon the man who is its president.

The Rotary believes that every member of the club has a personal responsibility with regard to the selection of the officers and directors who are to have charge of the club's affairs, and he does not discharge his duties to his club or to his fellow members unless he gives his serious and best thought to making the choice of the men who will have the honor and responsibility of guiding the affairs of the club.

The rotary club takes in business men in all lines, according to the Rotary Code of Ethics, which continues as follows:

"My business standards shall have in them a note of sympathy for our common humanity. My business dealings, ambitions and relations shall always cause me to take into consideration my highest duties as a member of society. In every position in business life, in every responsibility that comes before me, my chief thought shall be to fill that responsibility and discharge that duty so that when I have ended each of them, I shall have lifted the level of human ideals and achievements a little higher than I found them.

"In view of this it is my duty as a Rotarian—

"First—To consider my vocation worthy, and as affording me distinct opportunity to serve society.

Second—To improve myself, increase my efficiency and enlarge my service, and by so doing attest my faith in the fundamental principle of Rotary, that 'he profits most who serves best.'

Third—To realize that I am a business man and ambitious to succeed—but that I am first an ethical man, and wish no success that is not founded on the highest justice and morality.

Fourth—To hold that the exchange of my goods, my service and my ideas for profit are legitimate and ethical, provided that all parties in the exchange are benefited thereby.

Fifth—To use my best endeavors to elevate the standards of the vocation in which I am engaged, and so to conduct my affairs that others in my vocation may find it wise, profitable and conductive to happiness to emulate my example.

Sixth—To conduct my business in such a manner that I may give a perfect service, equal to or even better than my competitor, and when in doubt to give added service beyond the strict measure of debt or obligation.

Seventh—To understand that one of the greatest assets of a professional or of a business man is his friends, and that an advantage gained by reason of friendship is eminently ethical and proper.

Eighth—To hold that true friends demand nothing of one another and that any abuse of the confidence of friendship for profit is foreign to the spirit of Rotary and in violation of its Code of Ethics.

Ninth—To consider no personal success legitimate or ethical which is secured by taking unfair advantage of certain opportunities in the social order that are absolutely denied others, nor will I take advantage of opportunities to achieve material success that others will not take because of the questionable morality involved.

Tenth—To be not more obligated to a Brother Rotarian than I am to every other man in human society; because the genius of Rotary is not in its competition, but in its co-operation; for provincialism can never have a place in an institution like Rotary, and Rotarians assert that human rights are not confined to Rotary clubs, but are as deep and as broad as the race itself; and for these high purposes does Rotary exist to educate all men and all institutions.

Eleventh—Finally, believing in the Universality of the Golden Rule, 'All things whatsoever ye would have that men should do unto you, do ye even so unto them,' we contend that society best holds together, when equal opportunity is accorded all men in the natural resources of this planet.

BIG CONVENTION OPENS IN L. A.

Ten Thousand Delegates Reach Southern California

The Rotary colors, good will and high ideals have captured Southern California, and will "hold the fort" all this week. Ten thousand delegates from 22 nations of the earth have arrived in Los Angeles and are now in attendance at the thirteenth annual convention of the Rotary clubs of the world, the formal opening of which occurred at 10 o'clock this morning. The convention is being held in the Philharmonic auditorium, which, at the opening hour this morning, was alive with humanity, gathered to attend this, the most wonderful gathering of Rotary members ever held, which means, probably, the most important conference of business and professional men ever to be held in California, and probably the entire United States.

Today was assembly, arrival and registration day at the convention. By hundreds the delegates poured into Los Angeles from all directions throughout the entire morning, every man anxious to do his bit in the furtherance of Rotary and its lofty ideals. The delegates started to gather as early as Saturday morning, when a handful made their appearance. Throughout Sunday the Rotarians continued to arrive, the stream becoming larger as the hours passed. The climax came this morning, when the ocean of Rotary came rolling in. The hotels of the city and of some of the surrounding towns are taxed to the limit to take care of the large number of visitors.

POWDER MILL EXPLODES

SAN FRANCISCO, June 5.—Three men were killed and several injured in the explosion of three storehouses at the Trojan powder works here this morning. The cause of the explosion is not known.

Harry Myers and Jimmy Toon, two office employes at the works, were killed outright. Antonio Decosta died shortly after his removal to the infirmary. Howard Brownstein, plant superintendent, was severely burned in the explosion but his injuries are probably not fatal.

BANDITS GET $10,000

LOS ANGELES, June 5.—Two bandits who held up the Richfield Oil company's office here early today escaped with $10,000 cash, according to William Manson, collector of the company, who was in charge of the office at the time.

REV. COLE HAS INSPIRING SERMON

Building Church Around Children Is Theme for Little Ones' Day

Rev. C. A. Cole, pastor of Central Christian church, gave a very interesting and inspiring sermon Sunday morning in honor of children's day. He spoke on "Building the Church Around the Children," reading the 18th chapter of Matthew, in which Jesus spoke so lovingly of the children and said, "He who attains the kingdom of heaven must become humble as a little child, and have the little child's faith."

He told of the provision being made in the new building for the teaching of the children, and compared the amounts each head of a family is assessed for public and high schools purposes, about $200 a year, and said that we certainly ought to equal or exceed that amount for religious education.

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn W. Lewis and daughters, Leonore and Glenna, of Turlock, are newcomers here, and are living in La Crescenta.

A miniature mind is often found in a big setting.

"MAN FROM HOME" AT THE T. D. & L.

What is claimed to be the most ambitious screen effort of George Fitzmaurice, is his Paramount picturization of Booth Tarkington's thrilling novel, "The Man From Home," which will be shown at the T. D. and L. theatre for the last times today. Filmed in Italy, the locale of the story, and with a superlative cast of popular players, the picture sweeps the on-looker through a breathless succession of incident to a startling climax.

Ralph Allan tells just what "Beyond the Rocks," to be seen at the T. D. and L. theatre tomorrow, is. He says "It is a flaming romance as only the autor of 'Three Weeks' could write it; as only Glorious Gloria, with dashing Rodolph Valentino playing the lover, could make it live in all its ardent splendor."

BAPTIST UNION WOMEN TO MEET

The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Union of the First Baptist church will be held in the church, Louise and Wilson, next Thursday. White Cross work will be taken up at 10 o'clock in the morning, and at 12:30 luncheon will be served. At 2 o'clock there will be a business meeting and an interesting program of musical and literary numbers.

ROTARY PROGRAM OF CONVENTION WEEK

Delegates Will Be Guests of Everybody in Southern Cal. During Stay

Monday will also be official day for arrival and registration. Throughout the day the registration committee will be found at Philharmonic auditorium, which will be the center of all convention activities during the week. Trips to cities other than Glendale, it is understood, are on the program for today. Also, there are scheduled for today meetings of the International Board of Directors, the International committees and a very important meeting of the committee on Proposed Legislation.

During the day the International Rotary Golf Tournament will be in progress at the Wilshire Country club, on one of the sportiest courses in the world. The tournament has been arranged in such a manner that Rotarians desiring to enter may play at any time during the day. Seven trophies are being competed for, among which are included the Hunter International Golf trophy, three trophies contributed by the Rotary Club of Los Angeles and one which has been competeed for annually since 1917, contributed by the Rotary Club of Clarksburg, West Virginia.

On Monday evening will be one of the happiest occasions of the week, when Rotarians exchange visits at the hotels, renew acquaintances and make new friends. The informal "get together" party is one of the feaetures of Rotary.

The formal opening of the convention will occur Tuesday morning, when a tableau entitled, "Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow" will be given. This will show in striking scenes the development of Rotary since the first meeting seventeen years ago. Not only will this spectacle please the eye, but will visualize Rotary's accomplishments and will be inspiring to all who see it.

The first speaker of the day will be Governor Stephens, of California, president of the Los Angeles Rotary Club, who will welcome the visitors. His address will be responded to by William A. McConnell, president of the British Association, from Dublin, Ireland. This will be followed by an address by President McCullough, this number closing the program for the morning. The afternoon will be given over almost entirely to the reports of the committee on Constitution and By-Laws, this probably being the most important matter to come before the Rotary convention.

A unique street carnival, which has been arranged by twenty prominent Rotarians, will be given Tuesday evening. The clubs of the 23rd District will participate in this affair. One of Los Angeles leading thoroughfares will be reserved exclusively for this event and nothing will be left undone than would add to its success. There will be everything from street dancing to burro bucking.

Wednesday morning will open with a novel presentation of the important subject of "Classification," by Chairman Arthur G. Pierce of Pittsburg. "Attendance" will follow this number, and this will be in the form of an address by George C. Diehl of Buffalo, N. Y.

This will be followed by short, snappy 5-minute talks by the clubs which have the high attendance records and whose accomplishments have been outstanding. Talks will be made by Harford H. Montgomery, Belfast, Ireland; T. M. Barlow, Bellingham, Wash., Sidney L. Hardin, Mission, Texas; Walter S. Young, Worcester, Mass., and James W. Davidson, Calgary, Alta, Canada. The session will close with an address on "The Friendships of Rotary," by Joseph Turner of Roanoke, Va.

The afternoon session will begin with a discussion, "Knowledge of Rotary—the Open Door to Service," led by Chairman Jeff Lydiatt of Calgary, Alta., with a short address on "What It Is and Is Not," by Rotarian William R. Manier, Jr., of Nashville, Tenn.

"Through Classification we come into Rotary; by attendance we are given the opportunity to make friends and to gain knowledge of Rotary and its benefits, and then our natural impulse is to give it to others." And so at this point Chairman Fenton McCreery, of Flint, Mich., will give an address on "Progress of Extension." This will be followed by inspiring messages from Rotarians, many of whom have traveled for weeks to be at this convention. They will tell how Rotary is bridging the distance between the nations of the world. These etalks will come undeer the heading, "The Voice of Rotary Around the World." The session will close by a play presented by the Rotary Club of Oakland.

On Wednesday evening the President's ball will be held at the Hotel Ambassador, one of the finest hotels in North America. The magnificent ballroom and the famous cocoanut grove have been reserved exclusively for this event and only those who have registered as attending the convention will be permitted to participate in the festivities of the evening. In the cocoanut grove plenety of jazz will be dispensed while in the ballroom the wiltz will hold sway.

"Rotary and the Boy," is the subject that will open the Thursday morning session. This discussion will be led by Chairman Hugh Van de Walker of Ypsilanti, Mich., and through the medium of concise statement the chairman, assisted by the members of his committee, will define Rotary's great opportunity in this entrancingly beautiful work. A general discussion of the subject will follow. As the ultimate aim in Rotary in Boy's work is the making of good citizens, the session will close with an address, "Good Citizenship and My Responsibility As a Rotarian," by Thomas C. Sheehan of Jersey City, N. J.

"Rotary and Business," will occupy the entire afternoon. As Rotarians are ebusiness and professional men actively engaged in their chosen fields, they should be interested in all things concerning their craft. This subject, therefore, will be given extensive discussion. The activities of the afternoon will be led by Guy Gundaker of Philadelphia, Pa., chairman of the Business Methods committee.

"The Relation of the Craftsman with Those From Whom he Makes Purchases," will be covered by H. B. Harvey of Chicago, Ill., while George W. Kinney, of Cleveland, Ohio, will talk on the subject, "His Relation with His Fellow Craftsman." The subject, "The Making and Executing of Contracts," will be taken by George Driver of Baltimore, Md., while Frank H. Littlefield of Toronto, Canada, will talk on "His Relation with the Public." Following this will be a talk on "How the Application of Rotary Principals Helped to Solve the Problem," by Arthur Chadwick of London, England, president of the Rotary Club of London. This will be followed by an address, "Business and Rotarians' Opportunity to Serve Society," by Preston S. Arkwright of Atlanta, Ga.

Thursday evening will be given over to reeunion parties, giving the opportunity for various groups to get together for renewal of old and cementing new friendships across the dinner table. Arrangements have been made with twenty of the leading hotels of Los Angeles, Santa Monica, Hollywood and Venice for entertainment of convention delegates. The Rotary Club of Santa Monica will act as special host to those who hold dinner parties in Santa Monica and Venice. Reservations must be made not later than Monday night.

The entire of Friday morning has been set aside for the election of officers. Simultaneously during the balloting there will be held special assemblies—one of Club Presidents, one of Club Secretaries, and one of Classification and Membership committees. These will be convened by district governors whose experience will enable these assemblies to accomplish the greatest amount of work in the shortest possible time.

An address, "Rotary Publicity—What and Why," will be given by Chairman Harry Craddick of Minneapolis. The real difference between publicity and notoriety will be explained. This session will close with an address on "International Goodwill," by Col. James Layton Ralston of Halifax, N. S.

Installation of new officers will take place Friday afternoon. Miscellaneoeus buisiness will be cleaned up and there will be presentations. This will be followed by "Farewell."

This is how the Rotary says it: "The time comes that always brings a lump into the throat and a mist over the eyes, for the time has come to say farewell. We don't say much. We try a song or two. We clasp hands and say, 'Good Luck,' 'A Safe Journey Home,' and 'God Bless You.' Then Auld Lang Syne and the Thirteenth Annual Convention of International Rotary is over.

The Rotary Club of Long Beach will act as host for Friday evening's entertainment. Special transportation has been provided for immediately following adjournment of the day's sessions. Long Beach Rotarians are a wonderful lot of fellows and they never do anything by halves. They have obtained the exclusive use of the big Majestic dance hall on the Pike. Many side-splitting, backbreaking, hair-raising, mirthful concessions, known to everyone who has visited the famous Pike of Long Beach will be out in force to entertain all comers, and in doing this they will be assisted by members of the Los Angeles Rotary Club.

The officials convention hospitality day occurs on Saturday. This is the first time in the history of Rotary that a day has been set aside exclusively for hospitality. Something in the way of entertainment that is strictly its own has been prepared by the Los Angeles Rotary Club. On this occasion the delegates to the convention will have an opportunity to shake hands with many of the movie picture celebrities, these including Douglas Fairbanks, Mary Pickford, Charlie Chaplin, Tom Mix, Bill Hart, Harold Lloyd, Charles Ray, Bebe Daniels, Thomas Meighan, Wallace Reid, Bryant Washburn, Buster Keaton, Norma and Constance Talmage and Sessu Hayakawa. Automobiles will take visiting Rotarians to the moving picture studios where they will get "close up" views of the motion picture industry.

After making the rounds the visitors will be taken to the Hollywood Bowl, a natural amphytheatre, where they will have the opportunity of seeing Bebe Daniels vamping Wallie Reid in a drama; Tom Mix and Bill Hart doing wild west stunts, Buster Keaton being slammed with a pie; Douglas Fairbanks enacting a scene in Robin Hood; Harold Lloyd and Carter De Haven in a special comedy stunt, circling among the spectators, while the camera takes pictures of this event.

Some of the Rotarians will leave for their homes immediately after the convention, while many others will remain to tour the state. No doubt the charms of Southern California will overcome some of the visitors—it usually does in connection with occasions of this kind—and the chances are that some of them will locate permanently in this part of the state. To those so inclined the latchstring of Glendale is hanging on the outside—in fact, the door is partway open.

JAPS FACE CRISIS

TOKIO, June 5.—Japan today was facing another political crisis, with the fall of the ministry in prospect. The tangled state of Japanese politics, growing out of the numerous attacks on the cabinet of Premier Takahashi, tilysanet of Premier Takahashi, hastily formed after the assassination of former Premier Hara, was responsible for the present situation.

Ideals of Rotary Movement Are Those That Built a Worldwide Brotherhood

What Rotary Symbolizes Explained in Brief, Terse Language, For He Who Is Busy May Read As He Goes on His Way

What is the Rotary club? What does it do? What does it stand for? What are its aims? What are its obligations?

Listen—

The objects of the Rotary club are as follows:

1. High ethical standards in business and profession-
2. The ideal service as the basis of all worthy enterprise.
3. The active interest of every Rotarian in the civic, commercial, social and moral welfare of his community.
4. The development of a broad acquaintanceship as an opportunity for service as well as an aid to success.
5. The interchange of ideas and of business methods as a means of increasing the efficiency and usefulness of Rotarians.
6. The recognition of the worthiness of all legitimate occupations and the dignifying of the occupation of each Rotarian as affording him an opportunity to serve society.

The obligations of Rotary are:

1. To attend meetings regularly.
2. To pay the dues promptly.
3. To do my part when called upon.
4. To be a big-hearted, broad-minded man—a man of energy and action—a real man—a Rotarian.

The benefits of Rotary are:

1. Making the acquaintance of men you ought to know.
2. Genuine, wholesome, goodfellowship.
3. Developing true and helpful friends.
4. Enlightenment as to other men's work, problems and successes.
5. Education in methods that increase efficiency.
6. Stimulation of your desire to be of service to your fellow men and society in general.
7. Business returns that come from enlarging your acquaintance and inspiring confidence in you and your business.

IN CALIFORNIA

By WARNER VAN VALKENBURG of Glendale

"In California," a little ballad consisting of two verses and chorus, composed by Warner Van Valkenburg of this city, has been selected as the official song of the Rotary clubs of California.

Where the hillside lights are gleaming,
By the balmy, restless sea,
In the land of orange blossoms,
Girl of mine, oh, come to me.

As the silver of the moonlight
Tells as ne'er was told before,
To my soul a soft voice whispers,
"You're the one I'm longing for."

CHORUS

I am waiting in Old California
For the girl of my dreams to come true;
In the land of the golden sunset,
I am watching and waiting for you;
In my heart, dearest one, there's a treasure,
It's the face of a girl I once knew,
I can see your wondrous love-lit eyes—
I'm watching and waiting for you.

GLENDALE

(Tune of "Katie")

This song was built by the Glendale Rotary club. It owns it. The way it will be sung will turn an Indian brown. It goes like this (sung to the tune of "Katie"):

G-G-G-Glendale, fast-growing G-Glendale,
It's the fastest growing city in the land;
We are from G-G-Glendale, b-beautiful G-Glendale,
And we're glad to be one of the R-R-R-Rotary band.

"CLUBS"

(Sung to the tune of "Smiles")

There are clubs that are for warfare,
There are clubs that are for peace,
There are clubs that have no special meaning,
There are clubs whose value will increase;
There are clubs yet in their swaddling clothing,
There are clubs of ancient history—
But the club whose mission is the noblest
Is the club we call Rotary.

"ROOSTER"

(Sung to the tune of "When You Wore a Tulip")

If I had a rooster, a wonderful rooster,
That rooster would have to be
A loud-crowing rooster, a hard-scratching rooster,
For the Glendale Rotary;
Or I would arrest him and when I had dressed him
That cock-a-doodle-do
No more would wake up the neighbors with his vocal labors,
For I'd have a chicken stew.

But I have no rooster, I don't need a rooster,
To scratch and to crow for me;
For I am a rooster, a game, cocky rooster,
Altho feathers don't grow on me;
And I am a booster—and how about you, sir,
For Glendale and Rotary;
I'm scratching and crowing to keep Glendale growing,
For Glendale's the town for me.

"ROTARY FOREVER"

(Tune of "Battle Cry of Freedom")

We have rallied here to dine, boys,
We've rallied once again,
Boosting the principals of Rotary;
And we've brought along our smile, boys,
Our wives and sweethearts, too,
Shouting our loyalty to Rotary.
Rotary forever! Hurrah, boys, hurrah!
Fling wide out, banner, and stand by our creed,
While we tarry at our dinner, boys,
And pledge to meet again,
Shouting for Rotary forever!

BARBARA'S

YES, MY DEAR, it's a broad statement, but a true one, that the GATEWAY MARKET BAKERY goods are all deliciously home-made! They make wonderful French pastries—tempting morsels that are of rarely delightful flavor; cakes and pies that will positively melt in your mouth, and doughnuts just like mother used to bake! And, speaking of mother, the kitchen at the Gateway Market it every bit as spic and span as mother's own! When you're in the vicinity of San Fernando Road and Brand Boulevard, drop in and see for yourself!

--*

ARE YOU FOND OF SANDWICHES? Then by all means do stop at the VIRGINIA BAKE SHOP, 634 East Broadway, and buy several loaves of their perfectly wonderful bread, for which they're famed! At the Virginia Bake Shop you'll pay for 24 ounces of good, wholesome, nourishing bread—bread that is exceptionally well baked and tasty! They put all of their materials (which are of the best) in the bread, instead of in the wrappers, as is too often the case!

--*

A PICNIC ISN'T MUCH FUN when mother has to fuss around over a hot old stove for days ahead, baking and cooking goodies! And, it's so unnecessary when she may just stop in at the SANITARY HOME BAKERY, 1102 East Broadway, for tempting, home-baked dainties! They bake fresh every morning; and, my dear, such delicious cakes you've never tasted! The Sanitary Bakery remains open on Sundays, too!

IT'S JUNE, MRS. GLENDALE, and Barbara knows that these days will be ones of joyous picnicking for you and Mr. Glendale and all the little Glendales! Hence, she's bringing you her basket laden with all manner of delightful delicacies and helpful suggestions that may make your preparations the easier! Just come—let us unpack it that we may see what she's found in the Glendale stores and markets today.

IT WILL BE A RELIEF to you to know that at the PURITY BAKERY, 718 East Broadway, you may buy freshly baked, home-made dainties all day Sunday! They not only remain open all day, but bake fresh in the morning! And, sh-h-h! a word to the wise: If you are planning a birthday party for the little tot, don't forget to order the cake from the Purity Bakery, as they'll design a beautiful cake, iced in the colors of your decorations, for less money than you could make it yourself!

--*

Melt a little cheese in the white sauce in which you scallop onions.

AND THEN THERE'S THE MEATS to be considered, too! For picnicking, you'll want the best to be had,—so that means the GLENDALE MEAT MARKET, 634 East Broadway! Mr. Ingledue, you know, carries none but the very highest quality meats, and these he offers at lowest market prices. You'll enjoy a delicious roasted leg of lamb from the Glendale Market, I know! And, too, if you aren't able to do the shopping yourself, just phone Glendale 1230—they'll give your order personal attention and deliver it immediately.

CLEAN LEATHER BAGS

Brown leather bags may be cleaned by rubbing on a thick lather of pure white soap. Apply it with a sponge, rub hard, let it remain on a few minutes, then wipe dry with flannel cloth and polish with vaseline; rub this in with bare hand; rub hard; don't use too much and wipe off well.

--*

SO MANY PEOPLE, I know, just don't like sandwiches unless the meat is sliced, oh! so thin! To them I'll say: "Drop in at the RELIABLE MEAT MARKET, 1502 South San Fernando Road,—for there they'll find, not only meats that are A-1 in quality and delicious in flavor,—but they may ask Mr. Danner to slice it for them! He has a wonderful slicing machine, but keeps very little meat sliced ahead, as it is apt to lose its freshness and flavor. Remember—it's the Reliable Meat Market!

Our treatments are the same as used by the famous Battle Creek Sanitarium of Battle Creek, Michigan, and consist of diet, exercise, massage, electric light baths, salt glows, hot applications, hot and cold sprays, galvanic and sinusoidal electricity. The laboratories are equipped with fine X-ray machines with the latest stereoscopic improvements. Here the research work is also extensively carried on.

The efficient methods of treating the sick, combined with a scientific knowledge of the preparations and combinations of foods used in a vegetarian, or so-called non-flesh dietary, gives the patient a well-balanced course of treatment. The purpose of this work is to help nature restore health and put one in possession of knowledge that will help them know how to live to maintain health, for it is easier to lose than to regain.

CONDITIONS OF THE VOLGA VALLEY DESCRIBED

Elder Christian, Adventist Leader From Europe, Reports Here

By W. L. TAYLOR

First-hand information vividly describing the awful conditions that prevail in the famine district of Russia—the Volga valley—was brought to one of the largest congregations ever assembled at the Seventh-day Adventist church, corner California and Isabel, Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock, when Elder L. H. Christian, general superintendent of the European division of the church, delivered a masterly address upon famine-stricken, Bolshevik and Soviet ruled Russia. His address was not based upon hearsay or information gleaned from reports sent out by designing newspapers and others interested in exploiting Russia, but upon facts gleaned by this able minister from actual contact with the Russians, millions of whom are starving to death for want of even bread to keep the spark of life in their plague-ridden, emaciated bodies. Elder Christian's experiences could not be couched in words strong enough to fully convey the true conditions of starving Europe, which, besides the Volga valley of Russia, includes portions of Siberia, Turkey and Persia. He said in part:

"The dry bones of a dead horse make a sweet morsel in soup for the children, and bread made of a poor quality of barley, a large percentage of which has been combined with clay, is considered a life-saver by the many starving creatures it sustains from day to day. There are 30,000,000 people in danger of death by starvation, and 9,000,000 have already died or will die before harvest time comes, it is said by those in charge of relief work.

"The starving mother will give the last bite of bread or tin of soup to her child, and turn her face toward the bare wall of her hut and die with the hope that possibly her child will live by her so doing. There are woe and misery and unspeakable conditions on every hand, and the heart fails to fully grasp the awfulness of the valley, where death seems to ride in the saddle. Thousands of children are to be fed, there is only bread enough to sustain a small percentage of them, and the names of the balance must be written off to die. Relief stations are doing this very thing every day; some of the children must be saved, but they can't save many of them.

"The Adventists are doing all in their power to alleviate the suffering in Europe, and have raised $125,000 for relief work, especially in Russia," continued the speaker. "We consider it our duty to look after our people first, and then the others who need help badly come next. We are able to save our people from starvation, and also to do a good part toward saving thousands of those who are not identified with us. We are broadening our work as rapidly as our funds will permit, and that is the great reason why I am here today—I want to raise every cent I can to help starving Russia," declared Elder Christian.

And right here, I want to pause long enough in recording this address to say that the Glendale Adventist church—the large congregation that assembled that Saturday afternoon, not realizing beforehand that they might be called upon to make a contribution for famine-stricken Russia—rose up as one big man and subscribed, in cold cash, more than $1300 to this fund to save starving humanity in that faraway land of terror and discord, where war has wrought its awful work, which will require ages to overcome.

"The American Relief association, under Herbert Hoover, is doing a wonderful work," continued the speaker. "The American Relief association is doing six times as much as all other agencies combined in providing food for the famine-stricken. More than $43,000,000 has been gathered together for this great work, and generous America is opening her heart to the call of the starving for help. A package of food costing $10 can be sent to Russia by anyone in this section who wants to help. We buy our supplies from the American Relief association, and not 1-10 of 1 per cent of the actual weight of the food sent out from this country fails to reach the people for whom it is intended.

"There is no truth in the statements going the rounds of the newspapers that the Russian government is taking the supplies and using them for its soldiers. The Soviet government is very friendly toward America, and America and Americans are very popular with the Soviet government and its officials.

"Ten million people have died during the past two years from the bubonic plague and spotted typhus, and other causes over which the people have no control, and now, this summer, cholera has made its appearance, and what the death toll will be no one can tell. It is certain, however, that the number will be appalling. The Adventists alone are feeding 12,000 men, women and children every day, and how long we will be able to hold out or increase this number will depend upon the money contributed by our people. We are raising a special fund of $25,000 to provide horses and farm implements so that the stricken people may help themselves. They have as good soil as can be found anywhere, and Russia is considered the granary of Europe. Let us be generous in our contributions, for we can do more real good for Europe just now than, perhaps, at any other time in the history of the world or our short lives.

"Few Americans are gaining a foothold in Russia, not because they are not welcome, but Americans seem to prefer to go elsewhere to pioneer. Germany is going to rehabilitate herself largely through her farming operations in Russia, for thousands of German farmers are settling upon these rich farm lands.

"I shall leave tomorrow for the east," said Elder Christian, "and if every church gave as liberally as Glendale it would not take long to raise this special fund of $25,000 to provide the means whereby the people may help themselves. I shall leave in October for Russia, going first to our headquarters at Berne, Switzerland, from which city we conduct our work throughout Europe."

Asked regarding religious work in Russia, Elder Christian said:

"The Catholics predominate, but the government is atheistic. Our denomination has been given courteous treatment, perhaps, for one reason, because we believe in the separation of church and state, and the further fact that we are doing as much, if not more, than other organizations of our kind to help put Russia on her feet. Our numbers are increasing rapidly in Russia, and the Adventists are doing a work that is reaching the people and leading them to believe that the work of the Master means more than words—actions and the doing of good, as well. Our hospitals, schools and other agencies for good are on the job day and night, and the call for funds to carry on the great work has been answered very generously. Truly, the Lord has given us a great work to do, and is fulfilling His promise that 'I will be with thee and give thee understanding and strength for thy task.'"

Elder Christian delivered his address at Pasadena and other surrounding cities, and was received with open arms by the large audiences who had the pleasure of hearing his masterly appeal for starving Europe.

Much that passes for independence is mere impudence.

Glendale Press Radio Editor Has New Life Station

Marjorie Dean Garver arrived "out of the somewhere into here" at precisely 12 o'clock noon today. She weighed 7 pounds 11 ounces and the doctor pronounced her a fine girl. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. N. D. Garver, concurred with his opinion, and mother and child are doing well.

Mr. Garver, who is the radio editor of the Glendale Press, says she looks exactly like her mother and that she is going to be just like him as a radio buzz. She has already begun to broadcast, he says.

HORSE SHOW TO OPEN IN NORTH

SAN FRANCISCO, June 5. — A horse show will open here tomorrow at Ewing Field under the auspices of the Stable Owners Protective association of San Francisco.

The program will open with a stock parade. Trotting, pacing, running, and steeplechase races will follow, with a series of stellar rodeo stunts and comedy events staged during intermissions.

The proceeds will be used in a campaign to secure a permanent livestock exhibit south of Hartet street.

IRRIGATION BOOST CAMPAIGN CLOSES

SEATTLE, Wash., June 5.—Tomorrow will see the windup of the campaign to raise $209,000 to advertise the Columbia basin irrigation project, which General Geo. W. Goethals approved after an exhaustive technical and engineering survey, in all parts of the United States. The project will be advertised both as a needful extension of the nation's irrigation system, and as a future home for thousands of farmers.

The allotments of money to be raised in the various districts will be reported finally tomorrow. The money will be spent over a two-year period to "sell" the basin project to the nation and to secure federal aid in the development of the great area.

Truths in Epigram

Many a dangerous temptation comes to us in fine gay colors that are but skin-deep. — Henry (1662-1714).

Truth stood on one side and Ease on the other; it has often been so.—Parker (1810-1860).

Moderation is the silken string running through the pearl chain of all virtues.—Hall (1574-1656).

THE ABUSED INDIAN

William Hart, famous on the screen, steps out of the glare of the camera to speak not as an artist, but as a man, on behalf of the American Indian. He makes a strong plea, and very evidently it comes from the depth of a warm sympathy. Moreover it is based on a series of facts of which the white American has reason to feel ashamed. Hart would have the money now wasted on the Indian bureau, devoted to the good of the Indians, and not to that of the officials who administer it. He would have the Indians made citizens and not kept in subjugation. In all this he enlists the approval of those who have given the matter thought. There could not well be, in the circumstances, a different conclusion.

The story is old but retains interest. The sorry record is familiar but has not lost its power to inspire in the mind a sense of shame. From the first coming of other races to this continent, the doom of the Indians was sealed. They were slaughtered mercilessly and needlessly by the early Spanish. The colonists who settled what is now the eastern shore of the United States might have had the friendship of the natives, but proved themselves unworthy of it. They stole Indian lands under guise of trading. Generation after generation they drove the Indians back, and when the last holding of the red man had become valuable, their descendants took that. The Indians, overpowered by mere pressure of numbers, and outwitted by the chicanery of their conquerors, sank to a condition worse than servitude. They became paupers classed as "wards." So still they are. The wrong and the wanton wickedness of it all lies at the door of the white man.

It is to be hoped that the gentle and just Mr. Hart, the "two gun" terror of the silent drama, may find more time to devote to the subject he treats so well.

THE GREAT UNKNOWN

It is a singular fact that residents of North America know little of South America. Histories that tell of the latter remain on the shelves unread. The modern historian, his attention diverted to spectacular events, has turned to new subjects. That South America maintains a state of civilization equal to their own, is a thought that seldom enters the minds of the busy North Americans wont to deem themselves the only "Americans" entitled to the term.

Once in awhile a newspaper article by a traveler throws some light on the subject. The movie pictures, through the medium of "travelogues" have flashed surprising information. On the screen are seen bits of Rio Janerio or Buenos Aires, two great and most comely cities. In respect of architecture they excel in artistry of detail anything to be found in the United States. They have long avenues of incomparable beauty. Their public buildings are wonderful. Their sidewalks are mosaics as elaborate as may be found ordinarily in the floor of a bank in this country.

Attention is drawn to these facts just now by the presence of a representative of Brazil. His purpose is to incite interest in the great exposition to be held at Rio de Janeiro in September. He is inviting the people of the United States to attend. He calls attention to the opportunity of getting better acquainted, and to the setting up of more cordial and extensive business relations. The wisdom of accepting the invitation is as evident as that of any other sound commercial suggestion. It would be to the advantage of North Americans to know South Americans, holders with them of the western continent, having many interests in common, and aware when they think of it, of the possibility of mutual help.

SECRECY NOT DESIRED

The Johnson and Woodruff resolution, having for its purpose the exposure and punishment of crooked war contractors, appears to have been shelved. Congress has listened with singular calm to the story of corruption woven out of the evidence these two ex-service men seem to have unearthed and verified. The only acceptable reason for failure to encourage the efforts of these gentlemen must be that by the duly constituted authorities, the whole subject is to be gone into, the guilty convicted and the innocent vindicated. There is no middle course that could ask the support of public opinion.

It did seem that a congressional committee was the proper body to investigate charges brought by members of the house. It would have the advantage of not being controlled by political considerations. Its activities would have been public, and such partisan feeling as might have existed, would have been counter-balanced by division of membership between the two parties.

The matter concerns the whole country. The feeling has been created that millions and perhaps billions of dollars have been stolen deliberately. The people, who had advanced this money out of their own pockets, desire to know if it found its way into the pockets of profiteers who had no claim to it. If such was the case, they want the thieves apprehended and the booty restored. Nor do they see why proceedings should be secret. Perhaps secrecy would be permissible as to certain preliminary moves designed to prevent formal charges being brought without due cause. This would be about the method of a grand jury. But a secrecy designed in any manner to cover up the truth, to shield the conspirators, or to thwart justice in any respect, could not fail to excite public indignation and protest.

EUROPE MORE CHEERFUL

There are prospects that the financial situation in Europe may be relieved soon. To lessen the tension in this manner would do much for peace. When people are hungry, or facing what seem to be insuperable monetary obstacles, they are in mood to fight.

The relief is to come from bankers. Of course this will give habitual opponents of banking a chance to rail anew. But if bankers are able to save Europe, and do save it, they will win approval so wide and sincere, that the scorn of dissenters may be deemed trivial.

Nothing could be more plainly manifest than that Germany is unable to fulfill the conditions of the treaty as to reparation. The belief is that if granted a temporary loan, on conditions proscribing the printing of more money, Germany may bring its currency to a real basis again. The duty of the bankers, and at which they are at present engaged, is to ascertain the capacity of the country to live up to reparation terms, if granted time in which to do so. The idea is dual. If they find that with assistance, Germany will be able to meet the demands, they will finance a loan. If they find that this would be impossible, even with the proposed aid, they are expected to suggest the fixing of a new scale of reparation payments, although whether this refers to the total, or to the time of ultimate extinction of the debt, does not yet appear.

The idea that it would be sound public policy so to weight any nation with debt as to destroy it, finds no sponsors. The present activity is not believed to spring out of sympathy for Germany, but rather, to be in token of concern for the prosperity of the whole world.

WHERE BORAH ERRS

Senator Borah pleads earnestly for recognition of Russia. He points out that the Russians have been brave, calls attention to their vast contributions of men to the world war, the millions of these who were sacrificed on the field of battle, or wounded or taken prisoners. In all this he is citing undisputed facts. He is, without realizing it, citing facts that are arguments against his own plea.

The courage and devotion of Russians to the cause of liberty excited the admiration of the world. It is exactly because of this that objections arise to recognition of the soviet regime. The regime does not represent the brave people of Russia, but it represents their oppressors. It is at the enslavement of the Russian masses, betrayed as they have been by the coterie now their masters and posing as their friends and protectors, that public opinion revolts.

To help the Russians to a prosperity that is denied them by the presence and potency of bolshevists would be a task that the powers of civilization would undertake with zeal. The world pities the plight of the Russians, and it realizes that permitting a naturally productive area to remain waste, and industries to die and rot, is no method of promoting their welfare or its own. The nations are forbidden to undertake such task. On the contrary they are asked by the soviets, and by Borah, to recognize as a government, and so to perpetuate as a government, the evils that have come upon Russia.

After working long and earnestly to convict certain rich New York landlords of conspiracy, a lawyer has quit in disgust. One of the chief offenders, having been found guilty, appeared for sentence and was fined $500, a sum perhaps impairing slightly his income for a day. It is not strange that the lawyer exclaimed "What's the use?" and declined to waste more of his time.

ANONYMOUS RELIGION

By. DR. FRANK CRANE

The best religion does not know it is religion.

The cleanest goodness is unconscious.

Consider the lilies of the field, how they grow.

The very best type of the human species that the race is now producing I consider to be the man who is interpreting his religion by his business.

Such a man was John H. Patterson, who died not long ago. I knew him somewhat well. He was not what would be conventionally described as a religious man. That is, he was in no sense a mystic, nor particularly identified with organized religious operations.

But he built up and conducted the National Cash Register company upon principles which considered first of all the welfare of the human beings it touched. That is the best kind of religion.

He made money at it. Instead of proving that he was selfish, this proves, on the contrary, that his principles were sound and workable.

The idea that if a man be just, merciful and altruistic he will be a failure in affairs is probably the nastiest piece of heresy now current.

Patterson was no saint of the conventional type, but he was much better. He was a man who had vision enough to perceive that fair dealing, honor and kindliness have an actual earthly value. That he made money out of such things strengthens our belief in the goodness of the universe.

I would like to mention in connection with Patterson two other men who, happily, are not yet dead. They have used the same principles as Patterson, and have demonstrated similar success. One of them is the Boston merchant Edward A. Filene, who is a worthy brother of Abou Ben Adhem, may his tribe increase!

The other is Lewis Solomon, the presiding genius over the store of Worth, Inc., New York.

All three of these men have touched innumerable lives, have encouraged the manlier virtues in thousands, and have helped to make American business as sound and wholesome as it is.

The notion that one can only be of spiritual help to the world by withdrawing from it is passing. The better theory, that the world is to be helped by going into it, and that the simple virtues of kindness, honesty and faith can create something beautiful and strong right here upon this planet—this theory is rapidly gaining ground.

One form or another of labelled and combative religious organizations may be declining, but the great power of anonymous religion is surging upward in vital tides.

THE LISTENING POST

This is a world of choice.
Life is thrust upon us.
We have no choice in that.
But with reason, growth, strength, maturity, begins the choice of things.

* * *

For the world has all kinds of things in it.
There is pleasure and pain.
Good and evil.
Love and hatred.
Ease and struggle.
Indolence and industry.
So we might recount the different elements that go to make up life.

* * *

Training, education, experience, reason, philosophy, religion, all help us to understand the nature of the choices to be made.
For we have what are termed moral natures.
Apart from our physical natures.
And moral natures may be builded and strengthened just as may physical bodies.
By a kind of spiritual or moral athletic training.

* * *

We are not predestined to anything.
Unless we choose to be so.
One of the greatest Americans was Theodore Roosevelt.
Who was not strong as a youth.
Handicapped by poor vision.
And who had aristocratic heredity and independent means.

* * *

Without choice his life would have followed a channel entirely different from that in which it flowed.
But he chose to gain health if he could.
To struggle in behalf of people who needed help.
To stand for the rights of the mass of people as against the privileges of special interest.
And his career was a matter of choice.

* * *

It is well for our young people going forth soon into the world from schools and colleges to realize how much choice means in life.
That every step in life is one of choice.
Except that of possible accident or illness.
But in the struggle toward achievement.
In the matter of ideals.
In friendships and work and play and all that life is a matter of choice.

* * *

How far we shall realize our highest ambitions is not to be exactly predicted.
But that we shall make the struggle is the main thing.
And the result of the struggle will be largely dependent on the choice made.
The choice of struggle and not ease.
Of toil and not idleness.
Of high ideals and not low ones.
Of love and not hatred.
Of faith and not skepticism.

* * *

The good things in this world are mostly things of positivism.
The evil ones are things of negation in many instances.
WHAT THINGS WILL YOU CHOOSE?

SONGS OF THE POETS

Sun—By Henry Rowe (1750-1819)

Angel, king of streaming morn;
Cherub, call'd by Heav'n to shine;
T' orient tread the waste forlorn;
Guide aetherial, pow'r divine;
Thou, Lord of all within!

Golden spirit, lamp of day,
Host, that dips in blood the plain,
Bids the crimson'd mead be gay,
Bids the green blood burst the vein;
Thou, Lord of all within!

Soul, that wraps the globe in light;
Spirit, beckoning to arise;
Drives the frowning brow of night,
Glory bursting o'er the skies;
Thou, Lord of all within!

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

NOT AT THE HAGUE

[Chicago Tribune]

America's policy remains unchanged. We shall keep out of the European game of politics. We have nothing to gain and much to lose by sitting in to that. We are ready to lend aid economically and financially when, and only when, the European governments have so composed their differences as to present a solid groundwork for credit.

No invitation should be wasted on us until it is accompanied by a sound plan for economic and financial reconstruction. It is apparent this cannot be formulated until political differences are compromised. It is Europe's responsibility to make that adjustment. After that America will consider co-operation.

In other words, the Europe strikingly disclosed at Genoa and left unmodified by Genoa offers no basis for the enormous credits sought from America. We have poured billions into that Europe and they seem to have disappeared. We are asked to pour more billions, but we are not foolish enough to do so until bottom has been found. Europe is not now a concern to which a sane lender will send money. It can be made so. Genoa should have gone a long way toward making it so. It did not. The statesmen preferred to go on with the deadly squabbles and futile tactics begun at Versailles.

There is no duty upon us to help Lloyd George win the next election, nor Poincare hold his place, by our paying the German reparations with which the French can keep up the strongest military force in the world while avoiding the pains of deflation, nor make with our backs a bridge over the chasm between soviet repudiation and the thrifty Frenchman's natural wish to be paid what he has loaned.

Our interest is to aid in the restoration of Europe, not to furnish means for prolonging the suicidal policies which have been pursued since the armistice, and, if we may judge by Genoa, are hardly shaken today.

BETWEEN OURSELVES

By DELLA E. STEWART

Law makers, reformers, fathers, and mothers, take notice! There's a homely old adage that seems hard to remember. It's this: "You can lead a horse to water, but you can't make him drink." Ever since this old world began perfectly good-intentioned people have been trying to. None have met with success.

They've stood Dobbin by the trough week after week, they've pushed his nose into the water and held it there—only to be met with a snort of defiance when patience and strength for the time had gone. They've lashed him until arm was lame and stick worn out. Same result. They've preached whole volumes of sermons and delivered whole bales of good advice. Same result. The contrary nag simply would not do as he was told it was best for him to do.

If thrown and a few drops poured down his throat while his resisting jaws were pried open, and the treatment persisted in, it only ruined his disposition and made him suspicious of every one who came near. But wait until he grows thirsty, and it's no trick at all! One gentle "Come, Dobbin," and his nose is buried deep in the refreshing fluid!

Why not take a lesson from old Dobbin? Faith is sublime, but only if it be exerted in the right way. The childlike simplicity and blindness with which we go accepting the theory that laws will better human nature and that we can compel our children to righteousness is pathetic. If we'd only direct an equal effort toward creating an appetite for the better within them we'd accomplish vastly more. Even the jaded appetite can be enticed by watching others eat inviting food. Maybe if we ourselves took more pains to live the self-control, the patience, the fairness, the kindliness, and truthfulness that we try to force on others we'd accomplish more than all our scolding and admonishing will.

Why not try it?

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

A glance at any metropolitan paper for the light it may throw upon the subject of matrimony may be instructive. There are seemly unions recorded, perhaps in few words. They tell the happiness of worthy people.

HENRY JAMES

Then there will be the story of a rich old woman who weds a penniless youth, and regards the affair as a "romance" rather than as a distasteful episode.

A youth already a widower, wires that he is engaged to a dancer, who has acquired more notoriety off the stage than on. This is regarded as news and duly printed. In truth it is of no consequence whatever.

One girl whose engagement had been widely heralded, balks at the church door, explaining later that she is fond of publicity. Her wishes are met. She gets columns of publicity, that cost her nothing but her reputaion for good sense.

Another girl abandons her home the day before her wedding was to occur, and marries a "count" who never has shown any intelligence until he displayed shrewdness enough to annex her and her money. The title "count" sounds all right but as often used, has no real meaning.

There are stories of those who are charged with having more than one living wife or husband, and who are suffering some discomfort by reason of this thoughtlessness.

And divorces! No end to them. They actually run Dan Cupid a race.

Nevertheless marriage is a great institution, entitled to a respect it does not invariably receive.

* * *

Frank Munsey, proprietor of New York papers, is an old bachelor. Perhaps if he had had a son in the war he would feel differently as to the bonus. For instance he would not use the term "bonus loot."

But if soldiers, who took a chance, and who were promised they should lose nothing by going (unless possibly a life or something like that) in accepting a bonus would be accepting loot, it would be interesting to know how Munsey would characterize the millions stolen by contractors, who took no chance whatever, but took everything else in sight.

* * *

The Nevada divorce of Mary Pickford has been upheld. The general hope was that such would be the outcome, for the world likes fair play.

It was not fair play for Nevada to grant the divorce, and then declare that its act had been illegal. If it does not like its own scheme of easy divorce, it should change it, rather than cause discomfort to its patrons.

That peculiar type of bunko man who pretends that he has a large sum to distribute to the poor and is looking for an honest person worthy of acting as agent in the charitable work, has appeared again. He has the chosen worthy person advance a sum as security, and then turns over to him a fat but valueless roll of paper. The victim feels the sting and lets out a squawk.

This game has been played countless times. It is quite impossible to get sympathetic over the dupe. Anybody who could be fooled in this fashion does not deserve to have money, and no honest man would have entered into the scheme.

* * *

Los Angeles courts have acquired such skill that they deal with the speeder in twelve seconds.

This gives them time to name an adequate penalty, but no time for suspending it.

* * *

Tariff men are said to be blocking consideration of the bonus. Probably if they had not this excuse they could find another.

Suspicion is bound to arise that their stand is less due to regard for the tariff than to lack of regard for the bonus plan.

* * *

Almost daily there is a report of robbers somewhere have grabbed a pay roll. The idea of preventing such occurrences by placing prison bars and such obstacles in the way of the bandits does not seem practical.

Perhaps as a matter of precaution it would be wise to cease the plan of sending pay rolls out on the highway to be grabbed, since the obligations could be discharged as well by a check worthles to the thief.

* * *

Thieves broke into a new house in South Pasadena. There was not much for them to steal and so they tore out wires, wrecked a new bath tub and scraped off a lot of fresh plaster.

Perhaps psychology may be able to explain such deeps of meanness. It is too much of a problem for the untrained mind to tackle.

The individual caterpillar does not cut much ice, as the saying is. Under ordinary circumstances, that is, when it fails to crawl down the neck of timid mortal, nobody pays attention to it. Yet caterpillars illustrate the fact that in union there is strength.

Railroad trains on the Hetch-Hetchy line have at times been obliged to cease running. Caterpillars, utterly reckless of their lives, swarmed on the rails until the wheels slid and the locomotive failed to make the grade.

However, although the caterpillars proved the possession of a certain collective potency, it cannot be said that they got much out of it.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

We're an inconsistent lot, we humans. We run more to bone than to brains. Which observations are prompted by the case of Jason Peters, who discovered about two years ago that he suffers from a mortal disease. It will get him in time, that disease will. But in the meantime it is his salvation.

"How's your white corpuscles today, Jase?" I asked this morning. I'm a cagy rascal. I always like to ask people the particular question that most pleases.

"Fine," said Jase, beaming like a sun. "I've got the count down. I'll make them little rascals sit up and beg yet."

The funny part is that three years ago Jason Peters was as cranky and irritable and cussed a middle-aged old man as I ever knew. He had sold out his business for a modest fortune, and had nothing to occupy his mind and he relapsed into the most stupendous boredom. He had no wife and no child, and his nieces and nephews rattled him, they are so young and lively, and he does not like to travel. So he became a professional hydrochondriac. He found all sorts of things wrong with him.

"I'm fighting with death," he moaned hollowly on one occasion. "But I tell you, John, I'm not the sort of a fool who will suffer on just to ensure having a few more days of suffering on this earth."

He was beginning to contemplate suicide. And then, just in the nick of time—just in time to save his life—the doctor found that he really did have a real, hearty, honest, dangerous weakness. It was like turning on the sun for Jason. He has been a happy man ever since.

He forgot all about his counterfeit troubles and began to devote himself to the big game. He was given an interest in life again. The doctor said "travel," and Jase traveled. The doctor said "take photographs, in order to have an outside interest." He has become a camera nut. The doctor said "exercise," and Jase is beginning to brag about his biceps.

Oh, there isn't any doubt about it. This disease has got him and got him bad, and one of these days he'll pop off. But in the meantime he'll live happy. One never hears that idiot talk of suicide any more. And he may live another forty years.

HUNT - SULLIVAN WEDDING DATE ANNOUNCED

Bride-elect Reveals Day to Friends at a Very Pretty Tea

At this time of year the season's activities center around the bride-elect, and one of the month's prettiest affairs was the 5 o'clock tea given Saturday at Ye White Inn by Miss Dorothy Hunt, announcing the date of her marriage to Albert E. Sullivan. Miss Hunt's engagement was previously announced in Pasadena by a group of her sorority friends, and the date set for the wedding is July 11.

The guests of the afternoon included, for the most part, former high school chums and associates of Miss Hunt. Between the hours of 5 and 6 o'clock, a social time was enjoyed, following which the guests adjourned to the attractive pink and black private dining room, where a delicious luncheon was served.

The long table, at which about 30 guests were seated, was attractively decorated in pink and white, a centerpiece of pink sweet peas and baby's breath combined with ferns being used.

Places were marked by lily-of-the-valley and bell place cards, and at each place was a tiny market basket filled with candies, on the handle of each of which was a dainty maline bow.

With the refreshment course, two beautiful pink crepe rosebuds were presented to each guest, the ribbon which held them together also holding a card bearing the words: "Albert E. Sullivan-Dorothy Hunt—July 11, 1922."

At the close of the luncheon the honoree received the many good wishes of her friends, many of whom have known her since her grammar school days.

Invited guests included Misses Marguerite Hauber, Naomi Eastman, Harriett Williams, Katheryn Green, Dorothy Gilson, Lillian Shropshire, Gertrude Champlain, Frances Neth, Ethel Land, Sue Crump, Louise Ayala, Dorothy Snyder, Dorothy Hutchinson, Jeannette McClellan, Barbara Mitchell, Isabel Yates, Ruth Ryan, Mrs. Francis Gordon, Mrs. Ed Rohr, Mrs. Ethel Ford, Mrs. John Cate, Mrs. Smith McMullen, Mrs. Seymour Smith, Mrs. Louis Lewis, Mrs. William Sullivan, Mrs. Wilmot McIntyre, Mrs. Cecil Crandall, Mrs. Ted Touderberg, Miss Arlene Souderberg, Mrs. Robert Hurt, Mrs. Roger Bentley.

HUSBANDS DINED BY DRAMA SECTION

Members Gather at Mrs. White's Home for Home Cook Demonstration

Members of the drama section of the Tuesday Afternoon club entertained their husbands and a few other guests, at the home of Mrs. Warren Roberts, with a dinner Saturday evening, which proved that they are fine cooks as well as club women. Floral decorations and appointments carried out the club colors, yellow and green. The place cards of the gentlemen, which were of green and gold, bore silhouettes suggestive of some pun upon the name of the recipient, and were very clever.

Mrs. C. E. Hutchinson and son, Ralph, and Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Campbell were specil guests.

Following the five-course dinner was a program of toasts, opened by Mrs. R. E. Chase with a toast to the gentlemen, beginning with the quotation from Hamlet: "What a piece of work is a man! how noble in reason! how infinite in faculty! in form and moving, how express and admirable! in action how like an angel! in apprehension how like a god! the beauty of the world! the paragon of animals!" In closing she hoped the gentlemen would be able to wear their hats home.

The first response to this toast was made by Dr. Chase, who said:

"'When a woman's in the case,
All other things give place.
Disguise our bondage as we will,
This woman, woman, rules us still.'

"We are all, I am sure, willing to be ruled, for, next to God, we are indebted to woman for life itself and then for making it worth living. There is one who fells for him who is sad a keener pang than he feels for himself; there is one who rejoices in his honor more than he himself; one there is who loses all sense of self in a sentiment of kindness, tenderness and devotion for another. That one is she who is honored with the holy name of wife. I cannot do greater justice to my subject that by closing with the words of Shelley: 'Win her and wear her if you can. She is the most delightful of God's creatures, heaven's best gift, man's joy in prosperity, man's support and comfort in affliction. I drink to her health, God bless her.'"

Albert Pearce also responded to Mrs. Chase's toast, saying: "Here's to our wives and sweethearts—may they ever be one."

Mrs. Hutchinson and Mrs. Dan Campbell made brief speeches, expressing their admiration for the work of the drama section, and they a very beautiful gold tray was presented to Mrs. Chase by Mrs. L. V. Sherman on behalf of the section, as a token of its affection and appreciation.

By way of entertainment, shadow pictures within a large gold frame were given by members of the section, picturing Mother Goose rhymes and other familiar themes, Mrs. Newcomb and Mrs. Findlay picturing, "He laughs best who laughs last"; Mrs. Ocker, "Little Miss Muffit"; Mrs. Childers and Mrs. Temple, "True love never did run smooth"; Mrs. Barker and Mrs. Sherman, "Trilby," the lady last named singing "The Last Rose of Summer"; Mrs. Pearce, "If the shoe fits, wear it"; Mrs. Sherman and Mrs. Chase, "Jack Sprat could eat no fat"; Mrs. Sherman and Mrs. Barker, "The Great Lover"; Mrs. Sherman and Mrs. Findlay, "Washington Crossing the Delaware"; Mrs. Roberts and Mrs. Kent, "Don't cut off your nose to spite your face"; Mrs. Roberts and her Persian cat, "Pussy cat, pussy cat, where have you been?" The prizes offered for those guessing the greatest number of pictures went to Mrs. Hutchinson and Booth Franklin.

Mrs. Chase read the play, "The Case of Mrs. Kantsay Know," which was very much appreciated by the husbands, who then entertained their hostesses by gathering around the piano and singing for them.

The party guests were Dr. and Mrs. R. E. Chase, Mrs. Colin Cable, Mr and Mrs. Max Green, Mrs. Alma Gibbs, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Galvin, Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Hunt, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Kent, Mrs. Mabel Ocker, Booth Franklin, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Nash, sr., and Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Nash, jr., Mr. and Mrs. L. V. Sherman, Mr. and Mrs. R. K. Snow, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Temple, Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Findlay, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Verity, Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Cline, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Pearce, Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Barker, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lockwood, Mrs. C. J. Newcomb and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. John Dunn, Mr. and Mrs. L. V. Childers, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Roberts, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Campbell, Mrs. C. E. PRETTY WEDDING IN GORHAM HOME

Miss Ila Mae McClammy Becomes Bride of Harry Gorman

A pretty home wedding was celebrated Sunday afternoon at the home of Walter W. Gorman, 1143 North Louise street, when his son, Harry Gorman, was united in marriage to Miss Ila Mae McClammy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John T. McClammy of 130 Cameron place.

The ceremony was performed beneath a floral arch of Cecil Brunner roses and orange bloom, Dr. W. E. Edmonds officiating. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Marvelle McClammy, with Stanley Gorman acting as best man. The wedding march was played by Fred V. Shuck, who also served as accompanist for Mrs. Helen MasMullin, who sang, "O Promise Me" and "I Love You Truly."

Following the ceremony and congratulating of the bride and bridegroom, a wedding supper was served to the 50 or more guests present as witnesses, after which the newlyweds left for San Diego. On their return they will spend a month at one of the beaches near Los Angeles, and then come to Glendale to select a permanent home.

Both have a large circle of friends here, and they were the recipients of many handsome gifts. The list of relatives and close friends who were present included Walter W. Gorman, his sons, Bert, Reginald, Stanley and Sidney Gorman, his daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Le Velle, another daughter, Miss Kathleen Gorman, Mrs. John T. McClammy, Tolliver McClammy, Mr. and Mrs. William MacMullin, Miss Helen Delaine, Mr. and Mrs. J. Le Velle, Victor and Harold Le Velle, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Balthis, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Balthis, Frank Balthis, jr., Mr. and Mrs. Ed Sadler, and Mrs. L. Brown of Los Angeles.

HI-Y GROUP IS ENTERTAINED

Home of Iland Fansett Is Filled With Young Folks Party

The Hi-Y group from the First Methodist church were very pleasantly entertained Saturday night at the home of Iland Fansett, 501 East Wilson avenue. Each Hi-Y boy brought with him a young lady guest, which added much to the jollity of the occasion.

One of the main attractions of the evening, was the jazz orchestra which was made up of combs, horns and other "musical" instruments. This was followed by a number of games, after which a delicious luncheon of sandwiches, pickles, fruit gelatin with strawberry whip, home-made cake and punch were served. Mrs. C. W. Infledue assisted in serving.

Besides the Hi-Y boys and their guests, Mr. and Mrs. Rex Kelley and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Seitter were also present.

GUTHRIE RETURNS FROM CONVENTION

Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Guthrie of 314 Patterson avenue, returned Sunday night from a motor trip to San Francisco, where they attended the real estate convention. They report a wonderful trip, stopping overnight at the Del Monta hotel and they drove from Del Monte to Glendale, a distance of 358 miles on Sunday. They were accompanied by Mrs. Guthrie's mother, Mrs. E. C. Coles.

Mr. Guthrie stated: "We people in the South think Los Angeles is very hospitable, but they do not stand a show in it with San Francisco. They treated everyone in a most cordial manner and showed them a splendid time.

Other guests there from Glendale included Mrs. M. L. Tight, Mr. and Mrs. Cameron Thom, Mr. and Mrs. Spencer Robinson and daughter, H. L. Miller and Mrs. Jackman.

K. P. MEMORIAL DAY CELEBRATED

Forty Graves of Departed Are Marked in Memory

Most impressive were the memorial services held by the order of the Knights of Pythias Sunday afternoon at Forest Lawn Memorial park, where a K. of P. plat containing 1000 lots is reserved for members of the order and their families.

Cal Nicholson was general chairman of the local committee, and was assisted by Emil Fram, who, with a corps of assistants, located and decorated some 40 graves which are outside the special plat.

Thousands of knights from the cities of Southern California, and visitors who are here from the east, participated in the services, and all the avenues leading to the cemetery, as well as all available space within, were lined with automobiles.

This plat has been reserved for the use of all knights, regardless of the state or country from which they come, and is, therefore, of universal interest. The order is planning to erect a $50,000 monument.

The D. O. K. K. band furnished music and the D. O. K. K. patrol decorated the graves.

MISS BARTOW IS HOSTESS AT PARTY

Miss Phila Bartow of 464 West Lexington drive, was hostess on Saturday afternoon at a jolly birthday party in honor of her ninth birthday anniversary. Miss Phila is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wesley Bartow, and she received many pretty gifts.

Yellow coreopsis and daisies were used in decorating and at each place were yellow favor baskets. After a pleasant afternoon of games and music, delicious refreshments were served. Mrs. John Mortensen played several piano numbers and the children enjoyed singing.

Guests were Mildred Mortensen, Phyllis Carter, Ethelwyn Kent, Genevieve Carroll, Diros and Barbara Stamps, Helen Grensted of Alhambra, Jane Piercy, Lorena Vandenhoff and the hostess, Phila Bartow.

PARK SITUATION UP FOR SURVEY

Dr. Russell Calls Committee Together at C. of C.

The civics committee of the chamber of commerce, of which Dr. Jessie Russell is chairman, will meet tonight for the purpose of making a survey of the park situation, and to outline plans for the development of the present Kenilworth park and for the establishment of a system of small parks in Glendale.

Sub-committees have been appointed to bring in available data relative to sewage disposal. These committees will bring in information secured from the offices of leading engineers of Los Angeles and other cities, also information in regard to what eastern cities are doing along this line. They will also confer with similar committees in other suburban cities which are considering the question of sewage disposal.

PHILATHEA CLASS TO BE ENTERTAINED

Miss Vera Schlotzhauer of 229 North Verdugo road will entertain members of the Philathea class of the First Methodist Episcopal church Tuesday evening. A cafeteria dinner will be served at 6:30. Several items of importance are to be decided upon and all members are urged to attend. After the business meeting the Glee club will have a rehearsal.

Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Ball of Los Angeles, met with painful injury Sunday afternoon, when they were in an automobile accident at La Canada. The ambulance of the Jewel City Undertaking company was called and the injured taken to the Glendale hospital and sanitarium, where it was found they had fractures of the limbs and severe bruises. Both are getting along nicely.

The Nimble Fingers Sewing Circle, auxiliary of the Daughters' of Veterans, will meet at Mrs. Agnes Richardson's home at 611 East Broadway, Tuesday evening at 7:30. The wives of the Sons of Veterans are to be special guests. Later in the evening all will adjourn to the American Legion hall where the Sons of Veterans will serve ice cream, and the Daughters of Veterans will furnish the cake. A jolly good time is planned for all, so be sure and don't miss it.

HOME NURSING and HEALTH HINTS

CEREAL JELLIES FOR BREAKFAST

By M. JESSIE LEITCH

Emily was ten and full of ideas. She stayed overnight with another small girl and had breakfast in the other small girl's nursery.

And the next day she refused to eat her cereal, and for days afterward insisted, "I just can't eat oatmeal any more.

Her mother, suspecting that Emily had refused her cereal because Madge, her little neighbor, would not eat it, said nothing for several days, and Emily ate toast and warm milk and drank her orange juice and felt very superior to the small brother, who did not have ideas and ate stolidly whatever was put before him.

Then one morning little Tommie had a rather interesting looking dish set before him at breakfast. There was none for Emily.

She looked at Tommie's interesting looking blue plate, upon which trembled a mould of transparency, and then turned questioningly to her mother.

Emily Becomes Interested

It was a very warm morning in early summer and Emily's mother had had cereal jelly prepared for the nursery breakfast.

"What is it, mother?" said Emily at last, as she gazed across the table at Tommie's plate.

"It's oatmeal jelly, dear. I didn't ask Maria to prepare any for you because you are so tired of oatmeal."

Emily's mother poured top milk over the fascinating little mould of jelly on Tommie's plate and he attacked it eagerly. Emily was silent and a trifle wistful.

"It's just oatmeal porridge. I don't like it," she said at last. "Madge doesn't have to eat it, mother. Sometimes Madge has sausages for breakfast," she added thoughtfully.

Her mother was thoughtful, too. "Do you think I could have some—like Tommie has, please, mother?" And Emily thought of the fun it would be to have oatmeal jelly instead of oatmeal porridge for breakfast.

Of course, there was enough for her, too, and she almost scraped her dish in her anxiety to eat every spoonful. It was so good.

How Cereal Jellies Are Made

In hot weather Emily's mother often served cereal jellies to her children for breakfast, stewed fruit and toast or buttered bread and milk constituting the rest of their morning meal. Rice, barley, or oatmeal jellies were the ones they had most frequently.

To make rice jelly one washes one and one-half tablespoons of rice and soaks it in cold water for two hours. Then the water is drained off and the rice cooked for one and a half hours in a double boiler, two-thirds of a cup of milk being used to cook the rice. The rice is then strained through a fine sieve and chilled in moulds. It is served cold.

Tapioca jelly is made similarly, four tablespoons of tapioca being soaked in cold water for three hours, then cooked in two-thirds of a cup of boiling water for two and a quarter hours.

Salt is added to all cereal jellies. A double boiler should always be used. They may be made the day before eaten. Prepared cereal flours make quite as good cereal jelly as the whole grain, the entire success of these jellies depending upon long, careful cooking and cooling.

What Being a "Rotary Community" Means to You

Several years ago a man with a Vision and a love of his fellow men brought together a Representative Body of Business and Professional Men with the paramount idea of

SERVICE

The thought grew—men with like Ideals from all over the country banded together for this great purpose of Carrying Into Business, Ideals and Practices—One and Indivisible.

To instill into each representative occupation "The Golden Rule in Business."

To put Service before Self.

To combine Honest Ethics with Ambition and Success.

To promote Good Fellowship and Confidence.

To be known as "A Safe Man with whom to do business."

To make ROTARY mean not a veneer, but a reflection of character.

To foster the ideal that

SERVICE IS THE BASIS OF ALL BUSINESS.

W. R. C. ORDERS REPAIRS TO BUILDING

Receipts From Bazaar Total $300; Afford Sufficient Funds

Very happy are members of the Women's Relief Corps of N. P. Banks post, G. A. R., over the success of their bazaar and dinner, held in the Masonic Temple Saturday, which yielded gross returns of $300. This brings their fund for the repair and enlargement of G. A. R. hall to about $900, and as the total amount they undertook to raise was but $1000, they are now in a position to let a contract and will at once ask for bids, in the expectation that the building will be ready for use in a few months.

The corps as a whole feels very grateful to the chairman and others who rendered service at the bazaar and dinner and to merchants and others who contributed in any way.

Mrs. C. L. Peckham had charge of a special dinner party, and hostesses at the three long tables were Mrs. Mary L. Peck, Mrs. Brook Miller and Mrs. Mary Rose. Mrs. Anna Starkey had general charge of the dining room and Mrs. Tiny Hammond of the kitchen. Mrs. Brunette Skelton was chairman of the china booth, Mrs. Hattie Tiffany of children's wear, Mrs. Margaret Fuller of candy, Mrs. Mary Milligan of the rummage sale, Mrs. Nina Richards, fancy work; Mrs. Adelaide Chapius, fancy underwear; Mrs. Gertrude Tisdale, towels, rugs, etc.; Mrs. Julina Hayes, quilts and comforters; Mrs. Kathleen Barr, cooked food. Returns from the dinner were $170, and from bazaar sales, $130.

MERCHANTS' TEAM TRIMS TIGERS' WHISKERS

Comes Roaring and Departs Tame, and Is Champooed

The Glendale Merchants' baseball team tamed another bunch of tigers yesterday. This time is was the Pasadena Tigers, who were invincible, according to the matchmaker of the league. They came to Glendale like tigers and went home like a bunch of tame kitties, with the short end of an 8-2 score.

The pitching of Walt Heidler, former Pasadena player, and the hitting of Acosta, both of Glendale, were features of the game.

Heidler returned 10 Pasadena players to the bench by way of the strikeout route and allowed but six hits for the whole nine innings of pastiming. These six hits were kept well scattered and were allowed where they did the least good. The Merchants took 12 hits as their portion.

Acosta gave an exhibition of real hitting. He tagged the leather for four hits in five trips to the rubber, including a triple, two doubles and a single.

"Husky" King played his usual brilliant game behind the bat, and, in addition, stole four bases. He sneaked to second twice and pilfered third the same number of times.

This is the third straight game that the local pastimers have won. All of them have been won by a large margin, giving the players confidence in their ability to beat any team in the league.

It is said that the Pasadena Tigers came to Glendale yesterday with a ready-made reputation as players. They played a good game but not good enough.

The score by innings:

										R	H	E
Tigers—	0	1	0	0	0	0	0	1	0	2	6	6
Merchants—	3	0	0	1	1	3	0	0	0	8	12	3

Mr. Dennerlin, who ran into Hafemeister Saturday morning, came to the police station last night at 7 p. m. and notified the authorities that Hafemeister was dead. He gave himself up and was released on his own recognizane until after the inquest.

Hafemeister was hit by the automobile driven by Dennerline as he ran to catch a Los Angeles bound stret car.

WELCOME ROTARIANS

ROTARY is no longer a mere adjective. It has come to bear a deeper meaning to the community and to the nation. Rotary now implies an unbroken circle, a round of confidence, of service and a mutual helping hand. And since the Rotarians began, that ideal of service has built an internationally known and respected organization.

"We serve" is the implied motto of the Rotarian, "But serve not self."

Glendale is proud to welcome Rotarians within its portals and would be known, too, by such an ideal of service. "We serve, but serve not self." We would be a City of Rotarians and a Rotary Community.

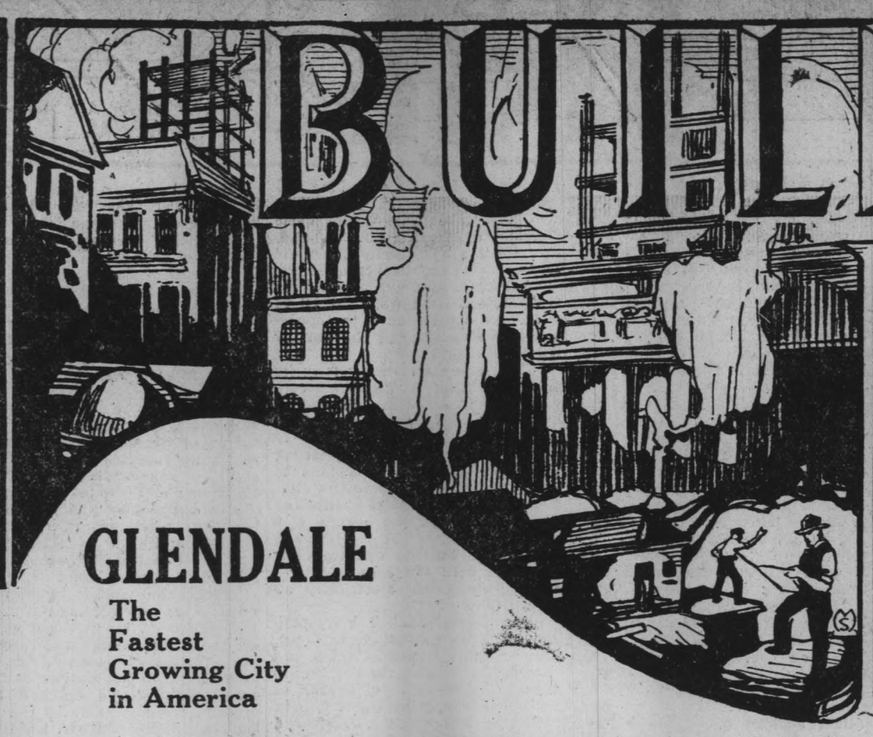
BUILDING?



GLENDALE

The Fastest Growing City in America

GLENDALE

A City of 50,000 in 1925

More houses are under construction in Glendale than ever before, and from present indications there is no let-up to the building program. Building much lower, and feel that material, labor, etc., is as low now as it will be for many months to come. Building experts and others in a position to know believe that labor will never be lower. Building material will also remain at the present price for many years at least. Don't pay rent any longer. Build now and be your own landlord.

STORAGE BATTERIES

To complete the cell, the grouped elements with their separators are immersed in a hard rubber jar holding the electrolyte. This is a dilute solution of water and sulphuric acid, both the water and the acid being chemically pure to a certain standard. The water should be either distilled water or cleanly caught rain water or melted artificial ice, while the sulphuric acid should be of the grade sold by manufacturers as battery acid or by druggists as C. P., meaning chemically pure. Commercial sulphuric acid or water suspected of containing impurities, especially iron, should never be used in storage batteries, as either will impair their efficiency. As it is rarely necessary to add anything to a storage battery but distilled water, an operator seldom has occasion to handle acid, but in mixing electrolyte, a glass, porcelain or earthenware vessel must be used and the acid must always be poured into the water and not the water into the acid. NEVER attempt to pour the water in the acid, and in pouring the acid into the water, pour the acid a little at a time. The addition of the acid to the water is not merely a mechanical mixture of the two, but is a solution in the formation of which a considerable amount of heat is liberated. Consequently, if the acid be poured into the water too quickly, the containing vessel may be broken by the excessive heat, which would be caused. For the same reason, if the water be poured into the acid, the chemical reaction will be violent and the acid is highly corrosive and will be spattered about. The electrolyte can cause dangerous burns, and will attack and destroy any fabric, metal or wood, so that only glass, porcelain or hard rubber or, earthenware vessels should be used as containers. However, as a little tip, if you should ever overturn your battery and allow the electrolyte to be spilled out, it will no doubt need replenishing in the form of water and acid both; as this is a delicate job and the electrolyte must be of the exact quantities of water and acid, it should be done by experts who understand it thoroughly. Take it to a reliable battery station and have them do it; they will do it right and for only a small charge.

Specific Gravity—The weight of the liquid as compared with distilled water is known as specific gravity. Distilled water at 60 degrees F. is 1 or unity. Concentrated sulphuric acid is a heavy, oily liquid having a specific gravity of about 1.835. A battery will not operate on full strength acid, so that it is diluted to reduce its specific gravity to 1.275. This, however, is the specific gravity of the electrolyte when the battery is full charged. The specific gravity of the electrolyte affords the most certain indication of the condition of the battery at any time, and its importance in this connection is outlined at greater length in books written especially on batteries. The specific gravity of the battery when discharged is about 1.150.

AMATEURS!

Experimenters, would be more appropriate. It is all very well and good to experiment, but why should you put every one else in misery while you are doing it? For the past week there has been an amateur experimenting by running his transformer direct from the light current and then breaking in with a key in the aerial circuit. At least, that is what he has been trying to do, and possibly doesn't consider the rest of the amateurs at all. His key leaks and consequently causes one terrible racket in the ether. It is a mystery why on earth his transformer doesn't burn up, as he keeps it going for an hour at a time while he experiments. This fellow is a serious detriment to the amateurs, and anyone knowing him should demand that he stop it or turn his name in to the radio inspector of this district. The last time this experiment was carried out was on Saturday afternoon of last week and unless it stops pretty quick the party causing the interference may rest assured that steps will be taken to have it stopped for good. These steps will not be of a selfish origin, but will be taken for the good of the amateurs as a whole.

PHUNNY STUFF

Dance? Try the "Radio Drift"

And now we are to dance the "radio drift." It was debated whether the new dance should be named the "lead-in," the "detector-dip," the "two slide tuner," or the "long wave," but the name od "radio drift" seems to have won. Those who are responsible for setting this dance in motion say the "long wave," or the "radio drift," is slower than the shimmy, but loses none of the curves.

Time moves fast in dancing. The toddle, which lately held the center of the stage, or the whole ballroom floor, is hopelessly old-fashioned. Some folks can remember when the cake walk, the bunny-hug and certain "glides" were all the rage. Some memories may go back to the tango and the hesitation. There are some strong, retentive minds that hold in remembrance the twinkling-hobby old waltz, the schottish, lancers, polka and redwa, but that was a long time ago.—Washington Star.

QUESTIONS-ANSWERS

Q. Do they require that insulators be put in guy wires which hold up an aerial pole? M. L.

A. Yes, they do, but for the life of me I cannot tell you why.

Q. Where can I get a pair of inexpensive 2,000 ohm phones? F. D.

A. The Glendale Electric company, in the one hundred block North Brand, have some 2,000 ohm Manhattan phones, and the Newton Electric company, at 154 South Brand, have some 2,000 ohm Elwoods. They are both good headphones.

MONEY VIA RADIO?

The Farmers Loan & Trust company have just completed arrangements with the London Joint City and Midland Bank, Ltd., whereby they state that money may be received via radio aboard the vessels the Cunard liners Mauretania, Aquitania and Berengaria. Looks to me like they're taking awful chances. Everyone will get radio sets. Everyone picks up the music; why can't everyone pick up the money? Maybe they are going to keep the wave length a secret. Seems like they will have to do something. Perhaps, though, that is where the word TRUST comes in, in the firm's name.—ED.

SIDELIGHTS

Views of Radiophones from the Newspapers Here and There

Just a little while ago very few of us knew anything about radiophones. If we did see a small news item about it we did not have enough interest to read it intelligently. Now it is different. All radio articles are read widely, so that all angles of this new fascinating science may be understood and appreciated. The editor of the Danville News (Danville, Ill.), has something to say like this:

"Just the other morning we woke up and were amazed to find that the world has gone crazy on radiophones. The radiophone has corralled American enthusiasm and what was once a purely scientific instrument is rapidly becoming as common as the talking machine."

We are chided sometimes by the older civilizations of Europe because of our enthusiasm over something new. It is not weakness, but an indication of one of our strongest national traits. We are now following our national bent in exploring the mysteries of the radiophone.

The leading newspapers of the country recognize that the radiophone has passed the experimental stage, although yet far from being perfect. It is being installed as a means of entertainment and also as a means of gathering the news.

The radiophone is one of the first things that have been almost entirely developed by the youth of the nation. Credit is due them for the great part of the advancement and the speed the new science has attained. The Courier (Lafayette, Ind.) speaks of youth's participation in radio in this manner:

"A dealer in radio material in speaking the other day about radio experiments and apparatus, said: 'A lot of boys that I know, know more about the radio than almost anyone else. Some of our people have gone in for buying expensive apparatus when they could have saved money if they had just let some of these young amateurs put in a set for them.' Then he called out a young fellow of high school age who was tinkering in his back room and began to ask him questions about radio apparatus."—Radio Digest.

Many times we have heard the expression, "As free as the air we breathe," but how about it now? All of our lawmakers at Washington are trying to find some way to control this air. At no great distance in the future we will begin to feel as if we were taxed for the air, but we are thankful it is only for that part called ether. The News (Plazewell, Va.) speaks in thismanner:

"The flying machine, the latest of the new wonders, must now give place to another equally wonderful. We have become accustomed to seeing airships, and only in country districts is notice taken of them. Now comes the Radiophone, which enables one to hear from everywhere. A concert, lecture or sermon, given in Cincinnati or New York, can be heard distinctly. Churches are installing the necessary appliances, which are simple and cheap, in order that the sermon may be heard hundreds of miles away. Railroad trains are installing Radiophones. Passengers may receive messages and hear the news. It is wonderful. But this, too, will be followed and superseded by something else still more wonderful."

A little light seems to be breaking here and there as to what we may expect for the future of Radiophones. Every day from one corner or another of the earth comes new developments in such a wonderful way that we stand aghast for the time, and the things that seem impossible break into the everyday hundrum of life and we awaken like Rip Van Winkle and ask if we have been sleeping for these long twenty years. The Post (Boston, Mass.) speaks of growing plants to be heard by Radiophone as follows:

"The time will come when by means of the Radiophone we will be able to hear a plant growing, a bud bursting into bloom; when the kick of fly's hindleg will sound like a clap of thunder and the inhabitants of this mad Radio-sphere will listen to sounds never before detected by human ears."

It has not been so very long ago that the drudgery of the household was unbearable unless quite a number of servants were at hand. Now there are so many electrical devices to assist the person doing the household duties that it seems impossible to find work for all of them. As an addition to the household electrical devices the Courier (Elgin, Ill. says:

"The Radiophone today took its place in the list of household conveniences along with the electric iron and the vacuum cleaner. A new invention of the bureau of standards at the department of commerce permits Radio fans to attach their apparatus to the electric light socket and eliminate the cumbersome and not always convenient battery. This will enable Radiophone fans to operate their machines with the ease and comfort of any other electrically attached device."

Short skirts, bobbed hair, pull-your-teeth-to-cure-your-corns, jazz jewelry and the rest of them, are simply not in the running nowadays. The wonderful craze of Radio has swept the country, then used a vacuum cleaner. However, in milder tones the Michigan Press states it this way:

"This is only the first hectic flush that always accompanies the introduction of something new under the sun. Something like this existed when the phonograph was introduced; everybody dealt in them and artists contributed their services gratis just for the advertising. At the present time, singers, musicians and actors at broadcasting statons are said to be working gratis, but it is expected that this will soon pass. Soon this business will stabilize itself and Radio outfits will be sold by four classes of stores: sporting goods, department stores, electrical and musical stores."

If we are not boys, or have passed that age, we are still "overgrown boys" and we play as children, many times. Have you ever noticed how quick a child tires of most of his playthings and casts them aside for the new ones? Well, it has been such with the overgrown youth with the bicycle and phonograph. The Tribune (Oceola, Iowa) speaks of the interest lost in fads as follows:

"We make rapid strides in this country, and as soon as one stride is completed we start off on another. A year or two ago the airplane wah the whole thing. Now it is but an incident in our daily life. It has ceased to thrill. The all-absorbing topic is the Radiophone. You know all about it, how you can place an instrument in the house, stick an aerial up in a tree and then sit back and listen to concerts or market reports that are given a thousand miles away. You may even dance to the latest popular pieces if you desire, or you can listen to a sermon instead of going to church. It is a great stunt. What will the next one be?"

The passing of the saloon has eliminated to most of us the chance of getting a thrill when we see things that are not real. Many a fellow was capable of seeing a whole managerie soon after a glass or two, but now by Radiophone you can hear whole manageries without seeing them. In a humorous way the Gazette (Springfield, Ill.) tells of the Radiophone:

"Thrills that used to come out of a bottle are now coming out of the Radiophone. As outfits get cheaper, the Radio room will become the poor man's club. Even the near deaf will not be barred from membership. It is claimed they are able to hear Radio by the vactuphone. This device magnifies Radio waves to fit the needs of variously deficient ear drums. The next step may be Radio artificial ear drums."

Vacuum tubes were being manufactured at the rate of 5,000 a month last fall. In JJanuary, the output was increased to 40,000 a month. In April, it is announced, the production will reach 150,000; in May, 175,000; in June, 200,000 —an increase of almost 45 per cent.

Radiotelephony has practically eliminated the carrier pigeon as a message bearer. Recently the United States Army decided to sell its surplus birds, but not a single bid was received.

Apartments valued at $1,000,000, equipped with radio, will be erected in Philadelphia.

Airphone Varsity Races

Colleges are now using the Radiophone to make reports on relay races. Two of such races were held recently at the Pennsylvania University and at the Drake University, Des Moines, Iowa. In both instances a broadcasting station was set up after getting the authority from Washington to transmit the results.

THE SPIDER FINDS FRISK'S FEATHER

By JOHN BARTON

(Copyright, 1921, by Associated Newspapers)

Frisk Squirrel's feather—what a bother it was! He couldn't carry it around with him because his mother would have snatched it away and torn it into bits in no time. He thought it helped him to swim; and she didn't approve of swimming, feather or no feather. No, he couldn't carry it around, and yet he knew that crack in Nick Nuthatche's tree was no place to keep it in.

It wasn't either. The plaguey wind would have stolen it the minute his back was turned if it hadn't been lashed down. Who was kind enough to tie it up for him? You'd never guess, for it was some one who never does favors for any one—specially not for squirrels.

It was a big black spider—that's who. And I'll bet there's one right out in your garden now. She'll be an ugly old thing, even if she does wear the lovliest cross-stitch pattern in gold on her humped-up back. I guess that makes her vain, 'cause she doesn't hide under a leaf like the little brown ones do. She sits right out in the middle of her web, like as not, to see who's the next bug the wind will blow in.

Well, that spider picked just that particular wrinkle of bark above Frisk's feather-crack to sling her silken web from. Because she wanted his hiding-place to sit in when the dew began to fall. She threw out lines to a twig, and a blackberry-cane, and a milkweed stalk, and then sue spun her great round net or spider silk across the open space between them. Next she built herself a zigaz latter across the middle of it, to run about on—

Why? Didn't it show like anything? Of course it did. But she didn't catch much in the daytime. Night was her time to hunt, when all the moth-millers and mayflies, and gnats and skeeters begin their dance. Either they wouldn't notice the web or they'd think they could dodge right through it—and so they could, some of them. But the ones who so much as touched a wing went no further. For spider silk is just about the stickiest thing ever a buzz-wing stepped in. Stickier than the pine-tree stickum Nick Nuthatch used on his hole, even. The spider herself wouldn't walk on it.

Last of all she fastened a telegrap-line to the middle of the web and took it to bed with her, knowing it would twitch and wake her when an unlucky bug began his flouncing. But there was the feather flounging around in her crack as the wind twitched at it. She didn't like it a bit. But she wouldn't throw it out. She could only tie it down, tight, tight, tight.

She Sits Right Out in the Middle of Her Web to See Who's the Next Bug the Wind Will Blow In.

NEXT STORY—A BAD SPIDER MAKES A GOOD MEAL.

UNIVERSITY MEN GET FRENCH DEGREES

Dr. Margaret T. Hodgen, graduate of the University of California 1913, and Miss Dorothy L. Mackay, who graduated in 1918, have been awarded graduate scholarships by the American Association of University Women.

Dr. Margaret Hodgen was a graduate student at the University of California in 1915-16 and then did graduate work in the New school of Social Research and Bureau of Municipal Research. During 1918-19 she was research secretary of New York State Commitee on Women in Industry.

Miss Mackay received A. M. degree from the University of California in 1919 and is at present a student at Sorbonne University in France. She will be a candidate for the degree of Doctorat es Lettres de l'Universite de Paris.

DR. FUNK TELLS OF NEW RELIGION

Speaking Before the First Lutheran Church Sunday on Modernism

Speaking on the subject of "Up-to-Date Religion," at the First Lutheran churc hyesterday, Dr. Funk said:

"We hear a great deal in these days about the twentieth century religion. They say our old ideas are behind the times. Our fathers and the reformers meant well, but they were ignorant, groping around with nothing but old bibles and worn-out creeds to guide them. And while these people were all honest, and are saved, no doubt, yet their old ideas of religion will never do for the progressive age in which we live.

"Now, these critics claim to be very learned, and they assure us that the liberal theories which they advocate are a wonderful improvement on the Bible. Well, their high-brow theories remind me of some students at college who took about a dozen different kinds of bugs and artificially constructed a wonderful insect from the different parts. They placed the bug on a table and called in the professor of natural history in the university, who was getting old and couldn't see very well. They said, 'Professor, here is a new bug that we have never seen or heard of before. Can you tell us what kind of a bug it is?'

"The old professor adjusted his glasses and looked it over; then he said, 'Yes, gentlemen, I can tell you exactly what it is. This is a humbug.'

"These people who profess to be so wise, talk about exolution, liberalism, rationalism, and higher criticism. And then, to make it popular, they call it the twentieth century religion, but I call it nothing but a humbug.

"The Sunday theater, the Sunday moving picture show, and the vulgar Sunday dance halls are the result of the teaching of liberalism and a lax form of religion. Wholesome discipline and careful training are woefully lacking in most of our homes. Back to the Bible, the only infallible rule of faith and practice, the only safe guide. Let us bring up our children in the nurture and admonition of the Lord. The child should be reared in the church, the garden of the Lord. Things left to themselves go to the devil, just as your lot, uncultivated, will go to weeds.

You do not need an instructor to teach your boy to lie and to steal, but without careful training he will never become a useful citizen. Unless you teach him diligently he will never learn to pray, 'Our Father, Who art in heaven.'"

REV. BROOKS TELLS OF GETHSEMANE

Bible Class Meetings Are Taken Care of by G. F. Snyder

In the absence of the president, W. A. Horn who, with Mrs. Horn, is visiting Mrs. Horn's parents in Syracuse, N. Y., Mr. G. F. Snyder, 324 North Isabel street, had charge of the meeting of the men's Bible class at the city hall Sunday morning. Rev. Keith L. Brooks' lesson on the "Battle in Gethsemane" follows:

"The institution and significance of the Lord's Supper, which is observed by all Christian churches, are set forth in the 26th chapter of Matthew. It will be noticed that its institution followed immediately upon Judas' betrayal of the Lord. The words used in the communion service by most ministers are found in the 11th chapter of I Corinthians, and you will notice that the minister usually begins by saying, 'Our Lord the same night in which He was betrayed.' Why is it that the sin of the traitor and the universal love of the Saviour are contrasted every time Christians gather at the Lord's table? There was a hypocrite in the midst even at the table where the Lord Himself presided. It is no wonder that they still lurk in the churches. The very possibility that one may sit one hour at the table with the Lord Himself, and the next hour go out and betray Him, should put us all to searching our hearts, for there is something Judas in us all.

"'Judas took bread and blessed it and gave to His disciples, and said, 'Take, eat: this is My body.' Who is this Galilean in a borrowed upper room who steps forward and says, 'I hereby put away the old covenant with its sacrifices and feasts and substitute a new one in its place.' Who is this that bids the Jews turn away from the God-appointed festival of Passover, and sets Himself up as the fulfillment of it all? What a tremendous piece of audacity this was except on one hypothesis—He was the Son of God and He was the Lamb of God. It was 'God manifest in the flesh' who spread this table.

"The rite which Jesus here institutes is a memorial before God and the world of His gift and sacrifice, and it is for the promotion of fellowship with Christ and His people. He is the living Bread which came down from heaven. Just as we eat bread and it becomes a part of us, so we may partake of the divine nature of Christ and He may become a part of us. By seating the bread, symbolical of Him, we acknowledge that Christ gives Himself, not only for us, but to us.

"'This is my blood of the new testament, which is shed for many for the remission of sins.' The title of the New Testament is derived from this statement. As the founding of the old covenant had been ratified with blood (Ex. 24:6-8), so the new covenant was ratified by the shedding of Christ's blood. Jesus would never have Christians forget that they are saved by the blood. Dr. Lyman Abbott, in a recent issue of the Outlook, made the statement that the 'vicarious atonement is nowhere referred to by Christ.' A Los Angeles preacher is quoted as having said that Christ might just as well have been drowned as crucified. What then did Jesus mean by the institution of the Lord's Supper? The words just quoted are unmeaning mummery unless they mean that His death was the ground of the remission of our sins. The Lord's Supper tells us exactly what He himself would would have us think of His death. It is impossible to deny that He taught its sacrificial character. By the Lord's Supper He points out the moment of His whole career which He desires us to remember. It is not simply that we should think of the tragic end of a great man, but that we might by it be reminded that it was through His sacrifices that we secured remission of sins. We may not be able to form a satisfactory philosophy of the atonement, but we can cleave to the Scriptural fact; we can know by God's peace, which is given to the believer, that our sins have been laid on Him, that He died for us, has been accepted in our stead, and that God looks at us through Him.

"'As often as ye eat this bread and drink this cup ye do show the Lord's death till He come.' This supper links Calvary's cross with the second coming of Christ. There are three tenses to the Lord's Supper. The past tense speaks of the one sufficient offering to God for the satisfaction of sins. The present tense speaks of a life produced and sustained in the believer by feeding upon Christ. The future tense speaks of the day when He is to return and drink the wine anew with us in His Father's kingdom, the day unending joy for all believers."

THINGS OF OTHERS IS REV. FORD'S

Pastor of First Baptist Preaches From Text of Broad Thinking

"The Things of Others" was the subject of the discourse delivered at the First Baptist church yesterday morning, by Rev. Ernest E. Ford, pastor. He took for his text, "Look not every man on his own things, but every man to the things of others."

He said in part:

"Once each month we come to the communion table of our Lord, to commune with Jesus Christ and each other. This morning I want to bring a helpful thought to each and everyone, something that will bind us closer together. The most wonderful things about California are not the sunshine or the climate, but that the people of California are so loyal to this state, for California is the assembling place of people from the entire United States. The people of California are loyal to one another and to Christ.

"Paul meant to tell what it meant to be a Christian and how to grow in the knowledge of the love of Jesus Christ. The deeds are the true confession of our faith. Self-seeking is the ground in which sin thrives—it is the cause of 99 per cent of discord and unrighteousness. When love enters in, discord departs. We should not overlook the good that is in others and should not be ever on the lookout for their faults.

"One of the principal features of the Kingdom of God is sympathetic imagination—not coldly, concrete theology. Forget to pat yourself on the back all the time, and do a little patting on the other fellow's back. There is many a father and a mother who is fighting against heavy odds. Just note the fight they are putting up and lend them a helping hand, rather than a knock. That's what Jesus Christ would do.

"If tomorrow morning you get up with a grouch, just hunt up someone who has the disease a little worse than you have, and try to cheer him up. Let us try to see the good in others. Jesus Christ did this. He did not think of himself, but His life was spent for others. Let us follow His example."

Following the sermon the Lord's Supper was served to about 300 members and friends of the church. During the morning sermon Mrs. Park Arnold sang very sweetly, "Just for Today."

At the evening service Rev. Wm. Keech, who spent a number of years as a missionary in Central America, gave an address entitled: "A Trip to Central America." Mr. and Mrs. Park Arnold sang a duet entitled "One of God's days," while an anthem entitled "I Love to Tell the Story," was rendered by the choir.

'CONQUERING POWER' AT THE GLENDALE

Rex Ingram, through his masterful production for Metro of "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse," established himself supreme among directors. A tremendous spectacle, envisaging the war as reflected through two continents, it overwhelmed with a superb sense of power.

In "The Conquering Power," his newest production, seen last night at the Glendale theatre, he works in an entirely different genre. Here we have an intensely intimate study of family life, a universal story of love and greed against the background of a French provincial town. The story has been adapted by June Mathis from Balzac's novel, "Eugenie Grandet," with swift-moving, masterful continuity. Mr. Ingram has illustrated it with pictures that have the tonal quality of great works of art; the soft lighting of the photography and the perfectly composed groupings give an exquisite sense of reality. It is a long stride from "The Four Horsemen," but, as an artistic achievement, no less noteworthy.

CHILDREN'S DAY AT BAPTIST CHURCH

Next Sunday will be Children's Day at the First Baptist church, corner Louise and Wilson avenue. The Sunday school service will be held from 9:30 until 10:30, following which the regular church service and the children's service will be combined. Everyone in Glendale is invited to this service.

Discussion on Ireland in the club was becoming acrimonious, and an Englishman remarked lightly:

"But you must really not forget that Irishmen are Irish."

The only Irish member of the group rose with an offended air and exclaimed:

"Surely you need not have said such a bitter thing as that."

LA CRESCENTA CONSIDERS NEW FIRE UNITS

Appoints Committee to Add to Fire Fighting Equipment

LA CRESCENTA, June 5.—The La rescenta Improvement association held its regular monthly meeting at the school auditorium Thursday evening, with President F. K. Czerniski presiding. After a report from various committees, there was general discussion on the proper fire equipment for the valley. A committee composed of Charles Waste, C. Pool, H. S. Bissell and Dr. E. N. Nettleton was appointed to investigate and purchase what it considered suitable, to add to the present equipment. H. S. Bissell, H. Roth and Dr. E. N. Nettleton were appointed to serve with the entertainment committee. H. S. Bissell was requested to secure speakers for the next meeting, on the water power act. Treasurer George Dunlop reported $413 in the treasury. C. B. Mallory, who has been taking a census of the valley and numbering the homes, reported he would finish his work this week. The entertainment committee is planning a number of dances for the last of June, to be held in the school auditorium.

Mrs. Lawrence Potter ond Mrs. Daniel Wetherbee were co-hostesses to members of the Service league of the Community church yesterday, at the home of Mrs. Potter, 167 East Mayfield avenue. Spring flowers in profusion were used in decorations. There were sixteen members present. After the business meeting the afternoon was spent in sewing.

Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Anderson of Montrose were hosts at a charmingly appointed dinner last Wednesday evening. Places were marked for eight.

Mrs. M. R. Van Heuklyn left Wednesday for Santa Cruz, where she will spend the summer months.

One of the contestants in a prize fight was requested to cable the result to his father in England as saan as the fight was over. The son duly sent off the following mesage:

"Won easily; 75 rounds."

CONTROL OF APRICOT BROWN ROT GAINED

Apricots in 1921 made up approximately 13½ of all fruit canned in California. With the material increase in loss due to brown rot, growers should find the results of recent experiments carried on by the University of California College of Agriculture exceedingly timely and helpful in maintaining a high rank of this California fruit.

To conrtlo brown rot, spray the trees in the spring when about 1-5 of the blooms are open, using Bordeaux Mixture in the proportion of 7½ lbs. copper sulphate (blue stone), 8 lbs. lime to 50 gallons of water. If the ochard is badly diseased a second spraying should follow a litttle later. As far as possible remove and burn all diseasesd branches and "mummied" fruit. Keep the center of the trees open to facilitate spraying, and admit sunlight to all the twigs and spurs.

A correspondence course on Apricot Culture, now available takes up this subject and others connected with growing of apricots. Address Division of Agricultural Education, University of California, Berkeley.

THE IMPS OF FUN

Out of my ink pot, Imps of Fun,
That frolic in high glee!
I have stern work that must be done,
So do not sport with me.

I have a mighty poem to write,
Majestic, noble, true,
And here you imps are making light
Of this great task I do.

I have not done this great work half,
Much work is yet to do,
Yet here you flout me with a laugh,
And make me laugh with you.

Whence come you, little Imps of Fun?
Why will you not return
Where you belong, till I have done
This solemn thing and stern?

You sport like grinning elves about—
I'm solemn as can be,
And then I hear your laugh and shout,
And you make sport of me.

And as I wrinkle up my brow
I hear you as you say:
"Oh, leave this stately rhyme right now
And come on out and play!"

I pull a long and solemn face,
Prepared great tasks to do,
And then you tickle me some place
And make me laugh with you.

There now! I had a noble verse
And then I heard you cry:
"Come, Solemn Owl, get off that hearse,
The band is going by!"

It is no use! I cannot do
That solemn thing today.
So, Imps of Fun, I'll go with you,
You've laughed my mood away.

Purely Personal

C. E. Jones, owner of "The Poppy Shop," 125 North Brand boulevard, is a former member of the Rotary club at Dayton, Ohio, and cordially invites all the "Dayton bunch" to come up and have a treat on him.

Mrs. James L. Henderson and son, James Lee, jr., of North San Fernando road, arrived at her old home at Pittsburg, Pa., recently after an enjoyable trip. While there Mrs. Henderson will be matron of honor at her sister's wedding, and after spending the summer there will return to Glendale.

Mrs. William J. Richards and son, Frank, of Chicago, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Hurd of 110 South Adams street, and L. C. Davis of 118 South Adams. Mrs. Richards and Mrs. Hurd are sisters. Mrs. Richards and son expect to be here about three months.

Mr. and Mrs. Karl E. Hollingsworth and children, Audrey and Ralph, Mrs. Fred Williams and son, Harold, and daughter, Winifred, Mr. and Mrs. H. Ryan and daughters, Ruth and Ramona, and son, Richard, Miss Harriett Bagg and Miss Geneva Bagg, enjoyed a beefsteak dinner Sunday at Monte Vista park.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Oppenheimer of Seattle, Wash., are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth Kinney, 425 West Elk street. They will be here about one week. Mr. and Mrs. Oppenheimer attended the Shrine convention at San Francisco last week. Mrs. Oppenheimer is Mrs. Kinney's sister.

Miss Belle Vickers of Hollywood gave a recital at her studio last Saturday night. Albert Bryant, son of Dr. and Mrs. A. L. Bryant, sang before the public for the first time and his many friends and relatives were very proud of him. Those who attended the recital were, Dr. and Mrs. A. L. Bryant, Dean Bryant, Hugh Bryant, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Barnard and Mr. Henry Bottie of Iowa, who are the house guests of the Bryants.

BAPTIST ADDITION NEARLY COMPLETED

The new addition to the First Baptist church, corner Louise and Wilson, is rapidly nearing completion. When finished this addition, which was made necessary by the increased attendance at the church services, will seat something like 100 people. It is believed that with this temporary addition the church will be able to care for those who attend until the new church is finished.

FIRELESS STOVE DEMONSTRATED AT PENDROY'S

Glendale Housewives Are Invited to See This 'Mechanical Servant'

Representatives of the Toledo Fireless Cook stoves are in Glendale this week at the Penroy Dry Goods store demonstrating a new departure in fireless cooking. The stove being demonstrated is termed by the representatives of the company "The Mechanical Servant." An entire meal can be placed in the cooker in the morning and when it is removed in the evening it is completely cooked and done to a turn.

C. S. Decker, district sales manager for the company putting the Toledo Fireless Cook Stove on the market has charge of the demonstration. His wife is the demonstrator in charge of the work. She bakes several cages each day and passes samples of them among the patrons of the store. R. H. Hughes is assisting with the demonstration.

The stove is being demonstrated every day, up to and including next Saturday, between the hours of 1 and 5 p. m. The type of stove recommended for household use is the Domestic cook stove. An entire meal can be cooked at the same time in this without preheating.

Heat is supplied by soapstones. They are heated to the required degree and placed in the cooker, the lid closed, and nothing more is done to the dinner until time to serve it. A table of heat required to cook various items of diet accompanies each stove as does a thermometer.

Water is not required when cooking with this stove as foods are cooked in their natural juices.

Mrs. Decker holds continuous demonstrations with the stove. Several times during the day the ladies of Glendale are gathered around the stove and are given a practical demonstration. When a cake is completed it is cut and passed around among the patrons.

On Thursday ice cream will be made in the cooker at the same time a cake is in the process of baking on the other side. This is done to demonstrate the perfect insulation of the stove.

A cordial invitation is being extended to the women of Glendale to visit the Pendroy dry good store this week and attend the demonstration of the stove. The demonstrations are held on the third floor.

SHORT COURSE ON FRUIT SUCCEEDS

With the attendance practically double that of last year the short course on fruit products conducted by the University of California College of Agriculture was pronounced a great success by all who attended.

Members of the classes were given samples of the new fruit drinks which were originated by Professor Cruess of the fruit products division. The beverages were well received and will soon be placed on sale in competition with artificially colored and flavored soda waters.

MissLilian Clark of the extension division of the College of Agriculture showed how to dry fruits and vegetables in the home in a home-made fruit exaporator costing from 50c to $ to build. She prepared vegetables and fruits before the class and dried them during the day.

Publications of canning, jellies, candied fruits, fruit juices, home-drying of fruits and vegetables and other food preservation topics can be obtained free of charge on application to the University of California College of Agriculture, Berkeley.

A Year Ago Today

(From the Glendale Daily Press of June 5, 1921.)

Members of the City Teachers' club are entertaining the people of Glendale this afternoon and evening with a presentation of the old play, "The Deestrick Skule."

Petitions have been filed for five citizens as candidates for seats on the city school board—Mrs. Nettie C. Brown, David Black and David J. Hibbern, incumbents, and two others, Mrs. Eva C. Barton and Dr. Presly O. Lucas.

A group of Glendale young folks gave a little entertainment last night for the disabled former service men at Thornycroft sanitarium. Music, readings and a one-act playlet made up the program.

The graduating class at the Intermediate school this year will number between 165 and 170. This list of students is made up of children from the various schools in the district.

Students of the Magnolia Avenue school spent the day yesterday in Griffith park. It was the annual picnic of that school.
